Milwaukee —(7)— Circuit Judge G. N. Risjord of Ashland granted a defense request today for an adjournment of the first degree manslaughter trial of Thomas M. Duncan at the close of the day's proceedings. The adjournment will be until next week.

Milwaukee —(7)— A source well-informed as to plans of Thomas M. Duncan's defense against first degree manslaughter charges on which he is being tried, said today that Duncan would testify in his own behalf.

Milwaukee —(7)— The state, having piled up testimony intended to show Thomas M. Duncan killed Henry F. Schuetz with his car and was driving while drunk, rested its case against the governor's executive secretary today.

The defense immediately went about presentation of testimony as to Duncan's character. The first four witnesses were James Borden, state budget director; Mrs. Lucille Everson, Duncan's secretary; Fred L. Holmes, Madison lawyer, and Secretary of State Theodore Dammann.

All told of seeing Duncan in his office at the state capitol March 8, the night of which, the state charges, Duncan's car killed Schuetz on the W. Wisconsin avenue viaduct as he was coming to Milwaukee.

All described Duncan as appearing normal during the business day. All said they did not detect the odor of alcohol on his breath.

Benjamin Poss, chief of defense counsel, asked them these questions:

Good Reputation
"What is Mr. Duncan's reputation as to sobriety? What is his reputation as to being a decent, peaceable, law-abiding citizen?"

All answered in effect that it was good.

Mrs. Clarke said she last saw Duncan March 9 at 4:10 p. m. and in answer to a question whether he was sober that day, replied: "Yes."

The defense asked the witnesses if they ever had seen Duncan drunk and if they ever had seen him drink liquor. District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes objected and was sustained. Borden, however, answered "no" to the first question before being stopped. Holmes laughingly remarked "I've seen him buy a drink."

Dammann said he conferred with Duncan between 2:30 and 3 p. m. March 9. He said they discussed state business. Duncan's position, dealing with the state's fiscal affairs, required a keen alert mind, Dammann testified adding "Mr. Duncan's mind is exceptionally keen and alert."

All Right During Day
Apparently anticipating a defense that Duncan was ill rather than intoxicated at the time of the accident, Steffes asked Borden and Holmes whether the defendant seemed to be all right physically and mentally that day.

"Yes, sir," Borden replied. Holmes said Duncan said nothing about not being well.

In its attempt to convict Duncan of first degree manslaughter, which carries a penalty of five to ten years imprisonment, the state offered testimony of 52 witnesses.

Dr. Urban A. Schlueter, a police physician, who examined Duncan shortly after the accident, testified earlier today, saying:

"In my opinion, Mr. Duncan was acutely alcoholic."

Police Surgeon Arthur H. Cohn testified yesterday that he examined Duncan shortly after his arrest and found him intoxicated.

Replying to questions by District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes, Dr. Schlueter said:

Denied He Was Ill
"I asked him (Duncan) if he felt ill. He said he did not. I asked him if he had been drinking. He said he had two bottles of beer and volunteered the information a person could not get drunk on two bottles of beer."

The police physician testified he found no trace of injury on Duncan during the examination and

RAILROAD TRACKS WASHED OUT BY FLOOD

Torrential rain washed out a ravine 40 yards wide and 30 yards high in this Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific track bed near Hastings, Minn., and turned the storm-made gully into a sluiceway for the turbulent waters. A Burlington road bed 60 feet away also was washed out. A 15-foot culvert extending under the two road beds was plugged by debris, causing flood waters to dam up.

Roosevelt Urges Study of Nation's Phosphate Supply

Hopes to Evolve Policy on Domestic Consumption and Exports

Washington —(7)— President Roosevelt recommended today a congressional study of the nation's life-giving phosphate supply with a view to shaping a policy covering both domestic consumption and exports.

In a message stressing that this chemical is necessary to all forms of life—human, animal and plant, Mr. Roosevelt declared it was "high time for the nation to adopt a national policy for the production and conservation of phosphates for the benefit of this and coming generations."

The nation's principal phosphate deposits, he advised congress, are in the Rocky mountain states, centering around Idaho, and in Florida and Tennessee with small deposits in a few other southern states. So far the principal phosphate production has come from the relatively limited Florida and Tennessee supplies, while the vast deposits of the west remained little developed.

May Change Policies
The recommendations for a study by a joint senate-house committee indicated the possibility that emphasis may be placed in future on development of the western deposits and that there may be undertaken some revision of the nation's phosphate export policies.

"Recent estimates indicate that the removal of phosphorus from the soils of the United States by harvested crops, grazing, erosion, and leaching, greatly exceeds the addition of phosphorus to the soil through the means of fertilizers, animal manures and bedding, rainfall, irrigation and seeds," the president said.

"It appears that even with a complete control of erosion, which obviously is impossible, a high level of productivity will not be maintained unless phosphorus is returned to the soil at a greater rate than is being done at present. Increases by the addition of phosphorus to the soil must be made largely, if not entirely, in the form of fertilizers which are derived principally from phosphate rock."

Steamship Is Reported Aground in Lake Erie

Buffalo, N. Y. —(7)— The coast guard station here reported today that the Great Lakes freight steamer, ship Howard M. Hanna, Jr., was aground on Windmill point reef in Lake Erie shortly after daylight today.

The 600-foot Hanna is one of the largest vessels on the lakes.

Captain John Daly of the coast guard said the steamer did not appear to be in serious danger. A moderate sea was running along the Canadian shore, where the vessel lay.

The Hanna, which coast guards said ordinarily carries a crew of about 28 men, was sighted on the reef by an incoming steamer about 5 a. m. coast guard boats went out but returned to the station when the captain reported he did not need their assistance, Daly said.

The Hanna stranded about 1 mile offshore in foggy weather.

Emergency Relief Bills Are Drafted in Illinois

Chicago —(7)—Emergency bills to alleviate Chicago's relief crisis were drafted today in preparation for tonight's special session of the legislature.

The prime legislative task from Chicago's viewpoint was to uncover an additional $1,000,000 a month to meet the city's relief burden.

Chicago's share of the state sales tax is approximately $1,900,000 a month, or about a million short of the amount relief officials say is needed.

The city's relief funds for May were depleted after the first 59,000 families on the rolls had been paid. The other 34,000 families depended mainly upon foodstuffs from the federal surplus commodities corporation for sustenance.

Railroad Unions Threaten Nationwide Strike Unless Proposed Cut Is Abandoned

Washington —(7)— Railroad labor unions added a threat of a nationwide strike today to efforts of administration senators to prevent rail lines from putting a 13 per cent wage cut into effect July 1.

The Railway Labor Executives' association, charging in a statement that the roads had "double-crossed" their employees, asserted a strike would be the "only ultimate result" if the railroads pressed their $230,000,000 wage reduction program.

Senate opposition to the cut crystallized in withdrawal yesterday of a committee-approved bill to make more liberal RFC loans available to the carriers.

The bill was on the house calendar for debate this afternoon.

The senate returned the measure to its banking committee at the request of Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.), who said there had been "no discussion" of the wage cut proposal at the time the bill had been considered.

Conference Planned
Wagner told reporters that several committee members wanted to include a no-wage-cut stipulation in the legislation. Both labor and management will be called to discuss the issue, he said.

Administration leaders, weighing the potential effects of a rail strike, welcomed the probability that procedure under the railway labor act would delay a showdown at least until fall.

The labor executives' association said the brotherhoods would "observe" as they always have the railway labor act in their effort to prevent this unjustified pay on railroad employees' pay envelopes."

It added, however, that "if the railroads can not be convinced that a wage reduction is not only unjustified, but is absolutely dangerous to the economic structure of this nation, it will be necessary for the railroad employees to use their economic strength to save the railroad industry from committing social suicide and dragging other industries along with it."

Backed Loan Request
The railroad workers had joined with their employers in asking approval of the RFC loan relief program, the association pointed out in asserting labor "wants to cooperate with management in solving the industry's problem." It added:

"But the workers will not stand for being the goat. Railroad labor was engaged in such cooperative movement at the time the railroads served their official notices of the proposed wage-cut."

"In doing this the railroads acted in bad faith. . . .

"The railroad workers of America, already grossly underpaid, simply will not accept a wage reduction of any kind."

Man Dies After Fall Off Ladder

Oshkosh Resident Suffers
Skull Fracture in Weyauwega Accident

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh —Robert A. Blount, 33, 48 Jefferson avenue, Oshkosh, died about 4:30 this morning at Mercy hospital of a skull fracture suffered about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a 12-foot ladder slipped out from beneath him as he was putting up a sign at a new ice cream shop at Weyauwega.

Blount, who was branch manager of a soft drink firm here, was removed to the hospital in a Weyauwega ambulance. He was transferred from Toledo to Oshkosh last October. He was married and there are no children.

The body will be taken to Waynesboro, Ga., where funeral services will be conducted Sunday.

3 Fail to Identify Suspect in Slaying

Milwaukee —(7)— Three persons yesterday failed to identify a 42-year-old former Milwaukeean as a man seen with 11-year-old Joyce Roberts here since she was lured to her death by a sex-slayer last July.

The man was returned from Port Huron, Mich., earlier in the day by Sheriff Edward J. Mitten and two deputies.

Mrs. Margaret Roberts, mother of the slain girl, and two of Joyce's playmates said the suspect looked "very much like" a man seen at McKinley beach here with Joyce but that he appeared to have a less prominent nose. Officials at Veterans hospital here said the man, a resident for some time, left in March without permission.

Joyce's body was found in a creek near Granville July 31. She had been attacked and strangled, police said.

Senate Group Asks Increase In Relief Fund

Subcommittee Would Finance WPA for 8 Instead of 7 Months

NEAR END OF WORK

Southerners Want End of WPA Differentials if Wage Bill Passes

Washington —(7)—A senate appropriations subcommittee decided tentatively today to increase from $1,250,000,000 to $1,425,000,000 the work relief appropriation in the administration's spending-lending bill.

Chairman Adams (D-Colo.) said that the increase would finance the WPA for eight months instead of seven.

The house voted $1,250,000,000 to carry on work relief from July 1 to next Feb. 1. Adams told reporters the subcommittee thought it was desirable to provide funds for an additional month in order that the next session of congress would have more time in which to make a supplemental WPA appropriation.

Adams said that the committee had reached the tentative decision to increase WPA funds in a preliminary survey of the relief bill this morning.

He added that final decisions on this and other points would be made when the bill is formally reported to the full appropriations committee.

Many Finish Today
Adams said his committee probably would complete work on the three-billion-dollar relief measure today.

Southern senators, meanwhile, demanded elimination of regional differentials in WPA pay in the event congress enacts a nationwide minimum wage.

Many southern legislators have criticized the wage-hour bill which the house will debate Monday because it does not provide a lower wage scale for the south. The WPA, they pointed out, has a generally lower rate for that area.

Their informal discussion of an amendment to standardize WPA pay schedules if the house bill passes came as a senate appropriations subcommittee gathered to approve the $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill.

The subcommittee meeting followed a press conference statement by Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, that there was an immediate need to increase WPA rolls in all large industrial cities.

Sees "Serious" Problem
"We are going to have a serious relief problem in the near future," Hopkins said, explaining that many

Jury Is Completed for Harlan County Trial

London, Ky. —(7)—A jury of eight farmers, two county storekeepers, a bookkeeper and a carpenter was accepted by both government and defense today for the trial of Harlan county coal operators, peace officers and corporations charged with conspiracy to deprive miners of labor organization rights.

Before the 12 regular jurors were sworn in, the government dismissed charges against one corporation and one company official, bringing the number of corporate defendants to 20 and the number of executives on trial to 22. Also accused as conspirators are 22 former or present Harlan law officers.

Federal District Judge H. Church Ford sustained the government dismissal motion as to the Black Mountain Coal corporation of Ken- neth, Harlan county, the tipple of which was the scene of an estimated $150,000 fire of undetermined cause Monday night and Elbert J. Asbury, executive of the company.

Government attorneys declined to state the reason for the dismissal.

Quintuplets and Rest of Dionnes to Live Together After Home Is Built

North Bay, Ont. —(Canadian Press)—Papa Oliva and mama, the quint and the seven other little Dionnes at last are to live under one roof as one family.

Thus will be ended the cause of much resentment by the senior Dionnes, who have wanted their famous five at home with their other children since the quint became wards of the king and set up house in their own nursery.

The quint will be four years old May 28.

There now has begun "a new spirit of cooperation," said father Dionne's attorney who with Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the quintuplet board of guardians, announced the projected setup.

Plans are to be drafted at once for a new home at Corbiel, five miles north of the present house and the nursery at Callander. It will house all the Dionnes and should be ready by September.

Near millionaires with earnings from their movie and advertising contracts, the quint are to pay for their new abode, which will be so constructed that it can be halved,

Board Qualifies Beer Ban Ruling In Appleton Parks

Adopts Amendment Making Resolution Effective Jan. 1, 1939

The Appleton Park board Thursday amended a resolution to ban the sale of beer in city parks by adding a clause making the rule effective Jan. 1, 1939. The vote was unanimous.

The board adopted the amendment so that the ban would not interfere with picnics to be sponsored by several organizations at Erb park this summer. Organizations sponsoring picnics already had incurred obligations when the park board's resolution was adopted.

The original resolution was adopted when members of the Sixth Ward Civic League petitioned the board and asked that the same rules be applied to Erb park as were in effect in other first class parks in the city.

Following is the resolution: "Resolved: That the sale, consumption or distribution of any and all liquors or intoxicating beverages, including beer, either for profit or otherwise, be prohibited in all parks under the jurisdiction of the park board, with the exception of Tenah park, provided, however, that these restrictions shall not apply to small family parties."

The board also resolved, at that time, that "the parks are not to be rented to anyone for commercial purposes of any kind or nature."

The president of the board was authorized to secure prices on various types of tipping for two new tennis courts in city park. The base material for the courts was laid last fall.

Board members instructed the park superintendent to check shrubs in all city parks to see that none were in violation of a new city ordinance which was adopted recently. The ordinance stipulates that shrubs near intersections must not be more than three feet in height.

Says Diver Took Branigan Money

Prosecutor States Milwaukeean First Notified Officials

Janesville —(7)—District Attorney John Matheson disclosed today that Jack Browne, 22, Milwaukeean diver engaged by Rock county to search for the safe of E. R. Branigan, Beloit politician, had accepted $20 from Branigan with instructions from the full knowledge of Rock county officials.

Branigan was named yesterday in two indictments, one of which charged he attempted to bribe Browne and that later he paid Browne $20.

Matheson said the money immediately was turned over to Circuit Judge Jesse Earle.

The grand jury's partial report did not give details of the payment. In justice to Browne, Matheson issued a detailed statement today.

"The transaction," he said, "was carried out under their (Rock county officials) direction." Matheson said Browne had reported the attempt to bribe him, and was told that if Branigan attempted to do so again, he should take the money.

Browne had searched the bottom of the Rock river for a safe which Branigan had claimed had been stolen from his coal company office.

Branigan was under $1,500 bond today, having pleaded innocent to the indictments.

Eau Claire —(7)— Road conditions through this division are all virtually back to normal after recent washouts due to the heavy rain, except Highway 29 in Pierce county, according to the division engineer's office here of the Wisconsin highway commission.

Highway 29 is still closed between River Falls and Prescott, while washed out culverts and bridge approaches are being restored.

Flood waters from all streams in this vicinity are receding.

Town Officials to Be Next Objective In Grand Jury Quiz

Foreman of Investigators Wants Final Session Set for June 20

Waukesha —(7)—A final session of the Waukesha county vice-investigating grand jury was requested today for June 20, after yesterday's "bombshell" of 15 indictments which named, among others, Municipal Judge David M. Evans and Sheriff Walter Liskowitz.

The request was made by George Johnson of Oconomowoc, jury foreman. However, Circuit Judge C. M. Davison directed that the cleanup be continued indefinitely, with town board officials indicated as the next objective.

Judge Davison said that "if persons unfit to get tavern licenses in Milwaukee are allowed to cross the line and obtain licenses, the town board officials who issue the licenses should be called guilty of malfeasance."

Assistant Special Prosecutor Roland J. Steinle of Milwaukee announced the state's 15 new cases were ready for presentation.

"Judge Davison set the cases for trial June 13, and we will be ready with evidence then," Steinle added. Special Prosecutor William J. McCauley of Milwaukee was reported ill in bed today.

Flood Control Bill Is Sent to Senate

Billion Dollar Measure Given House Approval On Standing Vote

Washington —(7)— A billion dollar floor control program went to the senate today after winning house approval.

The bill would provide for starting a vast system of reservoirs and river walls by authorizing construction of $975,000,000 projects during the next five years. It did not appropriate funds.

Projects other than those listed specifically in the measure would be selected on a basis of priority by the army engineers from a list of proposed works estimated to cost more than $1,000,000,000.

The measure would make one important change in the act of 1936. It would cut from 100 to 30 per cent the amount of local contributions for flood control reservoir property rights. Contributions for local protective works would remain at 100 per cent.

House passage came on a standing vote.

W. H. Fallon Is Declared New Mayor of St. Paul

St. Paul —(7)—William H. Fallon, independent, today was declared mayor of St. Paul after an election recount contest brought by John J. McDonough, labor-indorced candidate, showed Fallon winning by a margin of 359 votes, 120 votes more than the majority given him by the canvassing board.

Won't Start Strife but Will Fight 'All Aggression'

ARMY SENT TO HILLS
Ready for Guerrilla Warfare With President's Troops

San Luis Potosi, Mexico —(7)— Slow-talking, quick-moving former army General Saturnino Cedillo spread his peasant army into the hills today to prepare for guerrilla warfare with the army of President Lazaro Cardenas.

He would not start it but he was ready with arms to repel "all aggression," said Cedillo, 45-year-old Mexican Indian, rightist political opponent of Cardenas and for 20 years the dominant power of San Luis.

Cedillo was plotting rebellion, charged Cardenas, 42-year-old radical leader of the nation's program of socialization of "Mexico for Mexicans" which was exemplified on March 18 by government expropriation of foreign-owned oil properties.

Their dispute was that between the right and the left, and many feared that if fighting began it might spread through the nation and make of Mexico another Spain.

Cardenas Brings Troops
The Cardenistas fixed their number at 18,000 to 20,000. Cardenas, invading San Luis in person to establish calm, had 10,000 troops in the state. Two regiments of cavalry were on the way from Chihuahua, 10 observation-combat planes landed here yesterday, and probably 20,000 troops could be brought quickly from nearby states.

Cedillo said he had "trustworthy" information the president was preparing to "try to crush me by force of arms" and that attack might come today. He kept to his vast Las Palomas estate, where with less than a dozen men last night, but his peasant force had taken to the hills and Cedillo was ready to follow.

Bitterly, the leader of Mexico's last important private army, whose fealty he held by land allotments on his estate, denied he plotted rebellion.

Accuses Enemies
He saw himself as the victim of efforts by his enemies to destroy him, carried on since his resignation as secretary of agriculture in a tilt with Cardenas last August.

Striking out at the president, Cedillo said in an interview with the Associated Press that the Mexican people was "tired of the infamous dictatorship, with communistic trimmings, that is putting an end to all sources of wealth and submerging the country in ruin and misery."

The agrarian leader quit the army this week rather than leave his home state for a new post.

"Efforts of every sort have been made to destroy me," he said. "Attempts have been made to take me out of my state so as to violate its sovereignty and tie it to the all-embracing will of the central government and, when they could not do this, they are trying to crush me by the force of arms."

Defiantly he laid down his determination to resist.

"I am ready to repel all aggression by means of arms, but I place the responsibility for the blood that may be shed on the caprice of the man who seeks to make of Mexico a dependent of the soviet."

Foresters of 3 States Open 2-Day Conference

Minneapolis —(7)— Foresters from Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin opened a two-day conference today to consider plans to make forest lands of more value to the citizens.

The forests will be considered in relation to unemployment, in relation to the under-employed families who might supplement their farm incomes by working in them, and in relation to recreation for low income groups.

Attending the conference is Lyle F. Watts, regional forester in the United States Forest Service, who has the forests in nine central states under his jurisdiction.

Ammunition Slides Overboard; Threat To Shipping in Bay

San Francisco —(7)— Several hundred cases of United States Army ammunition, lost overboard when a barge suddenly listed, menaced shipping in northern San Francisco bay today.

All crew members escaped when the motor barge Hermine Blum tilted and slid part of its cargo of 2,000 cases of small arms ammunition into the bay yesterday.

"Should one of the cases become entangled in the propeller of a ship the results might be disastrous."

The cases will float since they are hermetically sealed. Navy searchers found only one case.

40 Divisions of Chinese Hemmed In, Jap Declares

Commanding General Says Surrounded Forces Cannot Escape

BY ELMER W. PETERSON
Japanese Army Headquarters
South of Suichow, Somewhere in Anhwei Province—(AP)—The general commanding the Japanese armies which advanced from the south to the capture of strategic Suichow told this writer tonight that 40 Chinese divisions were surrounded in the Suichow area without a chance of escape.

He said most of these troops were provincial levies (which average roughly 4,000 men to a division) and were inside Japanese lines enclosing an area roughly 25 miles by 15.

Immediately after greeting a small party of correspondents who had flown by Japanese army plane 350 miles from Shanghai, the general declared the magnitude of Japan's victory at Suichow, nerve center of China's central front resistance, were not yet generally apparent. He would not permit his name to be disclosed.

Complete Occupation

The Japanese army announced complete occupation of Suichow early today.

The Japanese commander said the huge Chinese forces around Suichow were breaking up into leaderless disorder and suffering terrible casualties under the steady, merciless attacks of the Japanese air corps.

Other officers of the Japanese command said the fall of Suichow by no means marked the final phase of the ten-month-old war.

They declared emphatically that a new campaign destined to carry Japan's armies westward through the heart of China south of the Yellow river already was under way.

Prepare For Advance

They would not disclose details, but one high officer said Japanese troops were stretching from the Yangtze river through the coastal provinces above Shanghai and along a front bending westward above the Yellow river—were girding themselves for still more formidable onslaughts.

These, he said, would be pointed toward the obliteration of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his armies from China forever.

The writer said the American correspondent to reach the war zone behind the Japanese lines since the fall of Nanking Dec. 13.

Subcommittee in Favor of Boost In Relief Money

persons who lost their jobs a few weeks or months ago have exhausted their resources.

Federal work relief rolls now list 2,600,000 persons. The administrator said this number soon would reach 2,800,000 and possibly 3,000,000.

Chicago and Cleveland, he added, might require some of the additional state relief funds have been exhausted.

Hopkins said persons now getting unemployment insurance might be forced to ask for WPA help when those benefits cease. The social security board announced that almost $100,000,000 in such insurance has been paid in the first four months of the year.

The WPA has money available for a temporary increase in relief payments. Provision for $1,250,000 to run the WPA from July 1 to Feb. 1 is made in the pending relief bill.

Chairman Adams (D-Colo.) of the subcommittee handling the bill said in a radio speech yesterday that only the absorption of the unemployed in private industry can restore prosperity.

He asserted, however, that the relief bill, plus assurances that the government "is not unfriendly to confidence and increasing employment."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, urged Adams' subcommittee to provide $200,000,000 for farm subsidies in addition to the $500,000,000 previously authorized.

A material reduction in cotton, corn and wheat production is necessary, he said, if a price collapse is to be avoided.

The relief bill will come up in the senate Monday at the time the house begins consideration of the revised wage-hour measure.

Would Change Provisions

A campaign to whittle down the number of workers to which the hours provisions of the latter bill would apply was headed by Representative Coffee (D-Neb.)

He advocated adoption of the so-called "Grange" amendment to exempt processors and distributors of dairy products, livestock and seasonal agricultural commodities from the bill's overtime provisions.

On the other hand, a strong coalition of northern Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and Farmer-Laborites agreed yesterday to fight all amendments.

The bill would establish a graduated minimum wage for workers engaged in interstate commerce, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents at the end of three years. Maximum hours would start at 44 a week, dropping to 40 after two years.

Farmer-Labor Progressive Federation Expected to Pass on LaFollette Party

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Farmer-Labor Progressive Federation will hold its state convention here Saturday and Sunday to endorse candidates for the September primary and pass judgment on the new party, National Progressives of America.

Madison Progressives expect the federation to espouse a slate of candidates for all national and state offices, including United States senator and governor.

Since Governor LaFollette, president of the new party, has not declared his personal plans, is not a member of the federation and has not been invited to appear at the convention, preliminary conjecture concerns the action to be taken on the governorship.

One source said Secretary of State Theodore Damman, Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee, and two Progressive congressmen, Thomas R. Amle of Elkhorn and Gerald J. Boileau of Wausau were being mentioned for senator and governor.

Action 2 Years Ago

Two years ago the federation refrained from outright endorsement of any candidates for senator and governor to avoid conflict with its rule that blessing can only be given to candidates who are members.

Some county units already have gone on record in favor of the National Progressive party, but the Milwaukee unit, which controls more than half of the 350 delegates eligible to vote at the convention, holds the key to whether the federation will affiliate with the N.P.A.

'Mosquito Fleet' Requested Under Naval Program

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee, apparently with administration support, advocated today an immediate appropriation for 12 ships, a dirigible and a "mosquito fleet" authorized by the billion-dollar naval expansion act.

The vessels include two light cruisers and a 20,000-ton aircraft carrier. The other nine are auxiliary ships—the category in which the navy is most deficient.

Vinson, who conferred with President Roosevelt about the naval program Wednesday, said he wanted funds to start construction placed in a deficiency appropriation bill, now pending in a house subcommittee.

Only $16,000,000 is needed at the outset, he said. Unofficial navy estimates, based on present costs for similar construction, placed the ultimate cost of the sea craft and airship at upwards of $11,000,000.

The navy department, it was learned, has submitted the list to the budget bureau, and there were strong indications the bureau would approve it.

Items are Listed

These are the items, with unofficial navy estimates of the total cost, for which Vinson is asking funds:

Two light cruisers mounting 6-inch guns, $44,000,000; a large sea plane tender, $12,000,000; two small seaplane tenders, $3,000,000; a mine layer, $5,000,000; a mine sweeper, $1,500,000; two oil tankers, $15,000,000; two ice tugs, $4,000,000; an aircraft carrier, $22,000,000; a 3,000-cubic foot rigid airship, $3,000,000; and an indefinite number of speedy, experimental torpedo boats, $5,000,000.

The aircraft carrier—the seventh modern ship of its type in the fleet or under construction—can not be laid down before 1939, Vinson said. Money appropriated before congress adjourns, however, would allow the navy to perfect specifications and order materials.

The airship would be the first constructed since the Macon and Akron, which fell into the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, respectively. Some naval experts have indicated they want to test the possibility of using a dirigible as an aircraft carrier of the skies.

Hearing on Fox River Survey Will Be Held

Reports on preliminary investigations of the Fox river and tributaries, authorized by the flood control act of June 22, 1936, will be made at a public hearing at 10 o'clock Friday morning, June 17, at the city hall in Oshkosh, the United States engineer office at Milwaukee has announced.

Interested persons are invited to be present or to be represented at the meeting. An open forum will be held on the investigations. Oral statements will be heard, but the office has requested that important facts and arguments be submitted in writing, since the records will be forwarded to the war department.

French Duelist Wounded But Quarrel Is Unsettled

Paris—(AP)—Edouard Bourdet, director of La Comedie Francaise, was wounded in the right arm today by Henry Bernstein, veteran playwright and duelist, in an "affair of honor" that failed to settle their quarrel.

The principals left the dueling field without reconciliation.

The attending physician said the wound was not serious.

The duel, with dull-edged but needle-pointed epees, took place on an estate at suburban Neuilly and consisted of two two-minute periods of fighting for which Bernstein, adjudged the injured party, chose the weapons.

It was Bourdet's first duel, Bernstein's ninth.

At the end of the second two-minute period the referee sighted blood oozing from Bourdet's right arm and, upon examination, declared the contest ended.

The referee split the swords apart as the signal to start. Bourdet immediately attacked Bernstein but slipped twice on the damp grass, whereupon Bernstein dropped his blade until his opponent had regained his feet.

After two minutes of exchanges the referee stopped the duel to examine each man. He found them unharmed and then gave them two minutes' rest.

There followed the second two-minute clash of weapons in which Bourdet was pincered.

The fight, under the full light of a noonday sun, was, in that respect, not in keeping with storybook standards of "affairs of honor" fought in early dawn.

The two principals had overslept and their seconds had promised they would duel the "first thing in the afternoon."

Both Bourdet and Bernstein are playwrights and their quarrel was related to the theater.

Bernstein, charging Bourdet with failing property to rehearse his current play, had withdrawn that work and his established repertory from the state-owned Comedie Francaise. Bourdet then had written Bernstein, "you acted without scruples, without honor and without loyalty."

Mrs. Letha Lester Asks for Reversal Of Her Conviction

Attorneys Tell High Court She Shot Mate in Self-Defense

Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court heard arguments today on a defense appeal to reverse the conviction of Mrs. Letha Lester, Manitowoc beauty parlor operator, sentenced to a prison term of 1 to 17 years for the killing of her husband, Earle, Feb. 14, 1937.

The court later took the case under advisement, with the likelihood that its decision will be handed down before the summer recess in June.

She was convicted of second degree murder. According to the evidence presented to the court Mrs. Lester, after a long period of disturbed marital relations, found her husband near Green Bay, a temporary reconciliation ended when Lester was shot while driving back to Manitowoc with his wife.

Claim Self-Defense

Defense attorneys Edward Meyer and G. F. Clifford told the supreme court that Mrs. Lester shot in self-defense. They said she had never made any threats against her husband, while he not only threatened her but several times assaulted her. They argued that Mrs. Lester had no intention of killing her husband when she started out to look for him the day before the shooting.

Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry asked defense counsel if that was true why Mrs. Lester carried a gun.

The reply was that she took the gun along for her own protection.

In asking reversal of the conviction the defense attorneys said Mrs. Lester was guilty of no more serious crime than manslaughter.

District Attorney John Cashman, who outlined the state's case told the court that Lester was not the aggressor in the family quarrels, that he had never attacked his wife, and that she purchased the gun with the avowed purpose of killing him.

The prosecutor said Mrs. Lester told the sheriff she slew her husband because "he was no good."

The state contended that upon the evidence the woman could have been convicted of first degree murder.

Story by Wisconsin Man Available for Children

Among new books received in the children's department at the Appleton Public library this week is the story of "Jerry of Seven Mile Creek," by Elmer E. Ferris, according to Miss Dorothy Kotkoski, children's librarian.

The book is for children up to the sixth grade and tells the story of a small boy's life, the circus at Seven Mile creek, horse races at the county fair and of town meetings in which Jerry had an interest because his father was on the town board.

Ferris is well qualified to write in writing, since the records will be forwarded to the war department.

Delicate Legal Question Raised In Ekern Battle

Governor and Advisors Confident He Acted Within Constitution

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—LaFollette administration lawyers who during the last few months have lost several crucial cases before the state supreme court today girded themselves for another stiff battle as the legal controversy over the governor's appointment of Herman L. Ekern to the position of lieutenant governor was steered toward the high court.

The supreme court yesterday informed William B. Rubin, prominent Milwaukee Democratic lawyer and party chieftain, that arguments may be presented on May 21 on Rubin's petition to the court to take original jurisdiction in a quo warranto proceeding on behalf of James W. Martin, a resident of Thiensville, challenging Governor LaFollette's right to appoint Ekern to fill a vacancy in the constitutional office of lieutenant governor.

Governor LaFollette's unprecedented appointment of Ekern came last Monday afternoon, supposedly as an effort to groom the 68 year elder statesman of the Progressive party as a candidate for high office this fall—most observers believe the United States senatorship.

The governor told personal friends that he also wanted a capable assistant near him to help out in executive duties even when he himself is not absent. Normally the office of lieutenant governor is, except during sessions of the legislature, quite meaningless. He merely fills in when the governor leaves the state, is incapacitated, or if the chief executive dies, he becomes the governor. During legislative sessions he is the presiding officer of the state senate.

The question of the legality of the Ekern appointment is a delicate and complicated one.

Governor LaFollette, himself a lawyer and his official legal advisors, base their claim to the legitimacy of the appointment on the words in the state constitution which provide that in the absence of the governor and a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor "the secretary of state shall act as governor until the disability shall cease," and on the words, "in case of a vacancy in any office in the state where no other provision is made for filling the same, it shall be filled by appointment by the governor."

Opponents of the appointment argue that the governor's appointment cancels a constitutional right of the secretary of state for an opportunity to be in line for succession for the governorship.

There is no specific authority in the constitution for an appointment of a vacancy in the lieutenant governor's chair.

Opponents may also point to the statutes which give the governor power to make various appointments, such as the supreme and circuit courts, and in the elective state offices of secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general, and state superintendent of schools, in cases of vacancies, but which do not mention the offices of lieutenant governor.

Dammann Sought Ruling

Rubin's petition to the supreme court came after Attorney General Orland S. Loomis announced that he would refuse to institute quo warranto proceedings according to Rubin's request.

It was also reported Thursday that had Rubin's attempt not been made, Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, who is in charge of all salary disbursements of the state government, would have asked the supreme court to rule on the legality of paying Rubin's salary as lieutenant governor.

Because the Ekern case has no precedent in Wisconsin history, intense interest is being shown by capital observers and particularly lawyers. Only once before in almost 100 years of statehood has a lieutenant governor been chosen out of the ordinary elective process. In 1822 the senate elected a presiding officer to fill a vacancy, who then took the title of lieutenant governor. But that case was not comparable, say

Joseph Cummings, 10, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cummings, route 1, Appleton, is the youngest pupil in Grand Chute who walked the longest distance, a mile and a half, to preserve his perfect attendance record at the Triangle school. He braved the storms and deep snow of last winter and one day reached the school when even the teacher, Miss Hildegarde Obarski, was unable to get through the drifts. dicted yesterday were named previously.

The court held two persons, V. R. Manhardt, Milwaukee, and Wilbur Carlisle, town of New Berlin, as material witnesses under bond of $250 each.

Otis Gomillion, special jury investigator, yesterday seized three slot machines but would not say where they were confiscated.

Judge Evans in a statement said, "this is a continuation of the persecution which certain individuals started against me at that time referring to his trial last December in which a jury found in his favor on a charge of violating the corrupt practices act."

Freed On Bond

Garland "Gob" Buckeye, tavern-keeper and town of Chenequa assessor, who formerly pitched for Milwaukee and major league baseball clubs, pleaded innocent to a conspiracy indictment and was released on $2,000 bond. John Stuetgen, Menomonee Falls, also charged with conspiracy, did not plead but posted $2,000 bond.

Otto Schroeder, Waukesha, pleaded innocent to conspiracy and attempting to bribe Frank Pritzlaff of the village of Merton, offering $50 for protection against arrest in operating slot machines while Pritzlaff was president of the village. Schroeder's bond was fixed at $4,000.

Theodore R. "Rudy" Kramer, town of Brookfield, posted $2,000 bond after pleading innocent to swearing falsely he had never been convicted, when he applied for a Class B liquor license.

Others pleading innocent on conspiracy charges were Joseph Martin, town of Delafield; Clarence Seider, Okauchee; Lester Wood, town of New Berlin; Edward Woodruff, town of Pewaukee; Claude Sprague, town of Muskego; Joseph Jacques, Waukesha, and Paul Nowatske, Mukwonago.

The lawyers, because the incumbent, Wymann Spooner, was only nominally lieutenant governor, was chosen only to preside over the senate. He was subsequently elected lieutenant governor.

Fair Competition Plan Will Create Business Trouble

Policy Is Prize Method for Creating Instability, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington.—The New Deal has thought up many and various ways of torturing and harassing the American business men, but, despite the words of President Roosevelt himself, urging that business and government cooperate in a program of reemployment, the prize method of creating instability in the business world has just been invented by the department of justice and announced with the full approval of the White House.

The plan is not intended, of course, deliberately to breed fear or to persecute business men. The object is supposed to be to bring about "fair competition" as between large and small businesses. But the effect of the new and extraordinary use of governmental power is such that it would not be surprising if a reign of genuine terror developed as a direct consequence of the policy.

Briefly, the new procedure, which is being tried out in connection with a prosecution about to be begun against certain automobile manufacturers and against some of the big companies which finance the installment purchases of automobiles, amounts to something like this:

Thinks Them Guilty
The federal government holds a gun at the head of the business man and says in effect: "We think you are guilty of a crime in asking auto dealers to do business under your standardized finance plans, which may be oked from the standpoint of the buyer of an automobile, but isn't oked as between you and the smaller finance companies who want a larger share of this business. Your competitors have been in to see us and have made a lot of complaints. We think you are guilty. We don't know whether we can secure a conviction before a jury if the case does come to trial."

"Now, we are not blackmailing you or trying to extort anything from you—no, not at all—but you know the address of our offices in Washington and you know our office hours, so if you happen to come in to see us 'voluntarily,' we will examine a proposal that might get you out of our clutches."

"Now, we cannot tell you what we will do with the proposals. They must be constructive and must concede far more than we could get if we prosecuted the cases because a criminal proceeding really doesn't settle in a given case what an economic practice should be in another case. Likewise, we don't know precisely or exactly what the anti-trust laws require in these relations between dealers and automobile companies and the public because, to be sure, the anti-trust laws themselves are difficult to administer and we are asking congress for $500,000 to conduct an investigation to tell us just what we ought to do about these anti-trust laws."

Must Submit Plan
"Nevertheless, if you come in with a plan that gives us a great deal more than we have a right to expect from a legal settlement, well, we'll take it up with the judge and leave it to him to say whether grand jury should file indictments against each of you and subject you to public humiliation, or whether, where indictments have been rendered already, we, the government, should just drop the prosecution."

Not long ago, Federal Judge Geiger in Milwaukee dismissed a grand jury because, at the same moment, he deemed improper negotiations were going on between the department of justice and the auto finance companies in an effort to force the signing of a consent decree. There were some sharp words used about coercion and unfair tactics. But the department of justice merely retaliated by trying to get the judge impeached in congress. Chairman Sumners of the house judiciary committee has never made public his findings, but the Wisconsin Bar association sent its representatives to testify against the palpable effort to intimidate the judge by threatening impeachment.

Now, the department of justice, in a public statement, repeats its procedure, reiterating that it never did anything wrong in the Milwaukee proceedings and will try it again before another federal judge, this time in South Bend, Indiana. The announcement of the proceeding is brought out in the open in advance of the filing of grand jury proceedings. This, at least, is a new frankness.

Willing To Bargain
The department of justice doesn't, however, make any bones about its desire to bargain with alleged criminals. The statement's official text says that in using civil and criminal proceedings "concurrently," it is "not the purpose of the department"

Obtain Bids for Construction of Seymour School

Proposed Catholic Structure Expected to be Ready by Sept. 15

Seymour.—Bids for the construction of the proposed new Catholic school, including plumbing, heating and electric work, were received by the building committee of St. John's Catholic church Monday evening.

No contracts have been let, as the committee will take time to discuss and compare the bids. It is expected that the new building will be ready for use by Sept. 15.

The new school building will be one-story construction, housing three class rooms, a 54 by 74 gymnasium, with stage, heating plant, toilet and shower facilities, making in all, a modern school for students up to and including the eighth grade. The residence property known as the Anton Lotter, Sr., home, has been secured by the church and will be used as a siteters' home in connection with the school.

Fourteen bids were received on general construction, 14 on heating, ventilating and plumbing and 12 on the electrical work.

At the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening F. J. Longrie conducted a quiz program and Richard Reyer won the prize by answering correctly all the questions asked of him. The club was entertained by some of the winners in the school music contest at New London. A clarinet quartet consisting of Beverly Falck, Mary Ann Trace, Kathleen Sutliff and Irene Court, played their first place winning number, and Betty Bunkelman and Colleen Sherman a flute duet. The Kiwanis club has been challenged to a softball game by members of the Civic club.

Reading Project Will Be Started at Library

"Reading to Treasure Island," a summer reading project for children who visit the Appleton Public library, will be started June 4, according to Miss Dorothy Kotlosky, children's librarian. A large map showing Treasure Island will be used to show how many books each child has read. The child will advance according to the number of books read.

ment to coerce or compel the prospective defendants to consent to a civil settlement on threat of criminal prosecution," but "at the same time it has never been the policy of the department to bar the doors at any stage of the proceedings against business men who may desire to propose a practical solution which is of major and immediate benefit to the industry, to competitors, and to the public and which goes beyond any results which may be expected from a criminal proceeding."

Here is a plain offer to barter, by use of the criminal indictment method as a lever, for something which, if corporation officers and directors agree to under duress, they would plainly open themselves to suits for damages from the true owners of their businesses, the stockholders.

Free Competition
Although declaring that the proposed solutions must be "voluntary," the department's official announcement says the proposals "must offer in addition to a prohibition of the violators of anti-trust" laws with which the prospective defendants are charged, substantial public benefits connected with the policy of maintaining free competition in an orderly market which could not be obtained by the criminal prosecution."

Even more pointed, however, is the public offer of immunity from prosecution which the department makes when it outlines what it will do to help squelch criminal proceedings if the right kind of proposals are made. There is no limit to the extent to which governmental power can be abused if the doctrine is established that, on threat of indictment for a criminal offense, corporation officers and directors must submit to a degree of government control over their businesses which neither congress nor the courts have ever sanctioned.

Dictators Shouldn't be Crying About Criticism

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Well, maybe some of our public officials have run off at the lip a little too freely of late about the native American abhorrence of war and dictatorships, but Mussolini and Hitler should be the last men in the world to complain of that. They love to dish it, and anyone who makes a practice of dishing it must expect to take it in his turn.

Mussolini and Hitler have been making dirty cracks about us and Britain. France, Russia and Czechoslovakia for years, and it is not so long since they were talking the same way about each other or each other's people, which amounts to the same thing.

It is written in Hitler's own creed, the Nazi bible, that the Italians, or, anyway, the southern Italians, are a low race because they are dark-eyed and dark-complexioned and have short legs. Marriage between a blond, blue-eyed, long-legged Nazi and an Italian of this description was condemned as something in the nature of miscegenation, or race defilement, on the ground that the Mediterranean races, which include many Italians, had a touch of the tar brush.

For extra the Nazis took a roundhouse swing at the proud Roman beak, or schnozzle, declaring it to be a mark of racial inferiority and knowing that the aquiline nose of the Romans is so called because it resembles the beak of an eagle.

There was rivalry between Mussolini and Hitler at the time. Mussolini personally despised Hitler as an imitator and had received a bad impression of Hitler when Adolf visited Rome to pick up ideas. They and their press—which, of course, speak their ideas and say nothing without permission—were sneering back and forth across Austria, and you can find in the old files, if they have not since been edited, many insults which make the angriest remarks of our statesmen and propagandists about them and their systems sound like the love murmurs of an infatuated sophomore.

King Victor's Legs Hardly Reach Ground It was wondering what private thoughts old King Victor Emmanuel had when he met Hitler in Rome the other day, remembering what Hitler had said about the inferiority of short-legged and hook-nosed people, because the king is so short his feet barely reach the ground and his nose, as the pictures clearly show, has an elbow about four inches from the tip.

Mussolini was dishing, too, at the time, and most of what they dished was so silly and childish that the rational peoples of the world found it hard to believe that such nasty, petulant remarks could represent the official opinions of nations claiming to be great and demanding to be treated with respect.

The dishing in Italy at the time the league of nations voted the sanctions, or boycott, against Italy for a flat violation of an agreement sounded like the raging of a spoiled brat in a tantrum. Mussolini and his journalists insulted every statesman and every nation on the list of sanctionists, and I heard the duce deliver one speech to a lot of poor, muddy peasants in which he stamped around exactly like a pampered little boy in a rage and at times went off into screams. I never saw an orator make such a spectacle of himself.

It's Chastly To Think Talk Might Cause War Now, it does seem an absurd way for nations to act toward one another, and I think we lower ourselves to let them make the rules of repartee for us and draw us into spats. But they began this kind of thing, and we in this country have no idea of the dirty things which they have been saying about us for years, because most of it has been too foul for the American editorial taste. And, although the American outbursts have done our dignity no good, it may not be a bad idea to let them know that they are supposed to be grown up now and are expected to develop some civil manners.

During their recent childhood they got away with much offensive conduct for the same reason that unruly children are allowed to impose on the patience of their elders. They always talk war. Well, this country certainly doesn't want a war, and isn't in shape for one, and it is chastly to think that a lot of mouth might have such dreadful consequences.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The Deadlock

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Within administration circles and in the business community there are a fair number of men who are willing to go to a lot of trouble to promote the reforms, that they are merely waiting their chance to recover power through a Republican victory in order to repeal and dismantle the social reforms. And most of the influential business leaders think that the New Deal is not engaged in reforming the abuses of capitalism but in supplanting the capitalist system. There is enough truth in both of these points of view to disrupt the efforts of the conciliators and to produce a feeling that any truce is tactical and that no peace will last.

Doctrinal Differences

Not Determining Factor

Yet from what first-hand observations I have been able to make I do not believe that the deepest cause of the trouble is theoretical, or as it is now the fashion to say, ideological. Though it is a fact that very few business men really like any of the major reforms, though it is a fact, I believe, that the president and his favorite advisors dislike the system of private enterprise and distrust most of the individuals who operate it, it does not seem to me that doctrinal differences are the determining factor. Business men would go ahead and do go ahead under any system if they see a chance to make a profit, and most of the New Dealers are after all politicians interested not in theory but in offices and careers.

The trouble as I see it is that without quite intending it we have drifted into a social arrangement under which the economic interests of business men in a normal recovery are at odds with the political interests of officeholders in the perpetuation of their power. This is the most far-reaching effect of the spending-lending activity of the Federal government. It has created a vast vested political interest which is opposed, as yet not avowedly or altogether consciously, to a normal business recovery based on private investment and the readjustment of prices and wages.

Cried Wolf When There Was No Wolf

The whole thing originated in the administration of President Hoover when the idea became firmly fixed in the public mind that in a depression the government should protect prices and wage rates by lending and spending. The only real differences between the Hoover policy and that of the first New Deal are that the New Deal had the good fortune to take hold on the upswing of the business cycle and that instead of spending and lending too little to make an effect it spent and lent boldly enough to produce the boom of 1936.

During this period of primed recovery under the New Deal, the spokesmen of business, both Republican and old-style Democratic, made what has proved to be a fatal political error. They cried from the house-tops that "pump-priming" would soon bring on a collapse of the government credit and a runaway inflation. The event proved that they were wrong. They cried wolf when there was no wolf, and the politicians, federal, state and local, who of course love spending, have ever since felt that it was unnecessary to pay any further attention to the prophets of catastrophe.

Government Spending Will Work for a While

When finally, in 1937, the administration itself cut down drastically its real deficit expenditure and there followed immediately a crash and another depression, all political reluctance to a resumption of spending disappeared. For whatever may be the ultimate reckoning, it had been proved to the satisfaction of the politicians that a certain kind of prosperity can be created — without lowering prices, without lowering wages, without bankruptcy and liquidation by the use of government money and credit.

The trouble with this system is that it really does work. It really does in a way succeed. If it were as foolish and ineffective as "The New York Times" for example, keeps on saying it is, it would not be nearly so dangerous in its ultimate consequences. For if the administration were unable to create a kind of prosperity by spending and lending to the people and the voters would quickly enough get rid of the New Deal. But the fact is that government spending and lending will work for a while, will work well

WPA Funds Will be Utilized for State Recreational Plan

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — The president has approved a WPA project authorizing $257,275 for a statewide project to supervise and coordinate recreational activities in Wisconsin.

Madison will be the headquarters of activities to be carried on all over the state, if Philip Flanner, state WPA administrator, proceeds with the project after it is cleared by the controller general.

It will be designed to develop recreation and leisure-time leaders for games, sports, social activities, and training for recreational leadership.

The state department of public instruction sponsored the project. The project, if adopted, will provide employment for needy professional and clerical and educational jobs.

Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac Democrat, was notified of the president's approval of the large project.

"I AM THE LAW" VS. "I KNOW NO LAW"

The suggestion that Mayor Hague and his associates may have breached the so-called federal conspiracy law in eulogizing men out of the right of free speech is a good idea to follow. Of course action must depend upon evidence that can be secured and while there appears to be no doubt that Mr. Hague is ruling something like a medieval baron it may be another thing to get evidence to connect him directly with Jersey City happenings.

Above the federal conspiracy statute still stands the constitution with its imperious mandate, "The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a Republican form of government."

A Republican form of government cannot exist excepting as authority proceeds from the people. The people cannot act freely unless basic rights are insured them. If Mr. Hague can prevent free speech and other basic rights he can come pretty close to Hitlerizing his city.

And still the cited provision of the constitution, judged from the use of the word Republican throughout the centuries, may need something by way of explicit interpretation.

To cite a few examples of the use or misuse of words, Poland called itself a republic 175 years ago because the king was elected by the nobles. At the same time what is now the German Empire designated itself "a republic of princes." Before that the imperial governments of Genoa and Venice which included extensive territory of which the cities were but the centers called themselves republics because they were governed by an aristocracy of noble families who selected one of their number to kingship under the title of doge. There were scores of so-called republics both in ancient and medieval times that we would call republics in name only.

Norman Thomas is probably pursuing the issue from a purely technical standpoint but a Socialist as well as a conservative has a right to be technical. The answer of Mayor Hague that a Thomas talk in a public park will mean a riot sounds disturbingly like that expression "protective arrest" used in Europe to clamp a man in jail who has done nothing wrong. Mr. Hague and his friends can drum up a mob easily enough but their conduct in so doing is reprehensible and they know it.

Mr. Thomas talks all over the country and aside from a little sporadic heckling his meetings are peaceful enough. He is a radical but he is not abusive. Hague's New Jersey conduct is comparable to the action of that Indiana chief of police who refused to let Communist Browder deliver a radio address.

But, while we are talking upon the subject of constitutional rights and federal conspiracy statutes, someone is likely to inject a question concerning sitdown strikes in which masses of men whose chief had contributed $600,000 to the Administration's success took over the property of concerns while even a member of the cabinet had her ladylike doubts whether there was any breach of the law.

The fact is that the constitution protects property rights just as much as what we loosely designate human rights such as free speech. And when you begin to neglect the enforcement of one part of the constitution you are likely to see others neglect the enforcement of other parts.

JUDGE GEIGER OPENS A LAW CLASS

In the announcement from the Department of Justice that indictments will be sought against the automobile finance companies we find a complete turn-about by the government and a practical acknowledgment that Judge Geiger who was its recent target was right all the time.

Someone must have helped the Attorney General look up the law. Somehow he discovered that it has been considered since the Liberty Bell rang out its glad message that a prosecutor cannot hold the threat of indictment over any person in order to blackmail him into an agreement by which he surrenders his claimed civil rights.

Judge Geiger's famous ruling was substantially this: If you have evidence that these companies have violated the law indict them; if you have not dismiss them; but you have no more right to club them into surrendering some of their claimed civil rights with a threat that you will indict them if they don't and that you will free them if they will than you may ask them to slip you $5,000 to let them go.

Judge Geiger was not only upholding the law as it is but decency as it has been understood. For that courage the Attorney General of the United States, formerly a leading practitioner before Connecticut justice courts, suggested proceedings generally leading to impeachment.

With an Alabama police judge on the supreme court who is so deficient in understanding legal principles that the other members of the court find it necessary to write his opinions and a Connecticut justice court lawyer in the Attorney General's job we are muddling along, learning a little every day but still blind in the right eye and deaf on the left side.

"WATER EVERYWHERE AND NOT A DROP TO DRINK"

Once upon a time there was a depression called the Depression of 1929. Banks holding but a small percentage of the deposits of America cracked. The cause of practically every bank failure was attributable to a government that promised to keep banks straight and failed to live up to its promise.

But the failures instilled fear. And the people withdrew their funds and hid them in old ticks and under the shed.

Presently a new list of rulers presented themselves. And they said that the difficulty with the country was in two particulars, first, the people were afraid, and second, and as a result of the first, there were not sufficient funds available in the banks and credit was simply unknown.

So the new generation of rulers cleaned up the bank situation in fine style. No longer did anyone have a fear about a bank deposit.

The money in the banks mounted higher and higher. Credit was as easy to be had as lighting an old pipe. But the new rulers forgot the principle of their own preaching. Although they had made the banks sound they commenced raising hob in other directions, instilling fear in their attacks upon primary principles that had existed as long as the nation.

And so today the banks are full of money. That grim look on a banker's face has nothing to do with the solvency or stability of his institution. It is induced by anxiety over what he's going to do with the money. Credit walks around slapping people in the face. But they won't even look. They want nothing to do with it.

And now we have the anomalous situation of a depression without any money stringency or check upon credit. We have people, metaphorically speaking, starving in a kitchen loaded with food while a roast turkey is in the oven and thick steaks are on the stove.

And the moral, if men are still capable of learning, is that the right hand better keep track of what the left hand is doing because there are several fundamental principles having to do with government, prosperity and the wholesome life of our people, and money and credit are not the only things to observe.

BIG APPLE—THICK ANKLES

Swing music and its various dances, the big apple, the shag and trucking will produce a generation of young men and women with thick ankles and addled brains, an osteopath told a convention of brother practitioners at Milwaukee recently.

Declared the doctor:

"The hysteria for swing music and the hopping dances that go with it will pay back its participants with thick ankles, broken feet and an exhausted nervous system unless they recognize its dangers. The big apple, in particular, puts many muscles to a strain for which they are not prepared."

The speaker went on to recommend the old-fashioned waltz, Virginia reel and the polka as dance beneficial to health. These dances teach grace and balance, and they had a large share in moulding the graceful posture of early Americans, he asserted.

The doctor's declaration seems to establish that Americans as a race today can't take it. For the wild dances of our jazz age are admittedly borrowed to a great extent from the native dances of the Negroes of the African jungles, and despite their tom-tom antics down through the ages the Negroes cannot be classed as a race of physically deficient men.

BACKBONE OF THE ARMY
A bill to provide increased pay for the enlisted men of the army has apparently received short shrift at the hands of the War Department, which approves the legislation in principle but feels itself obliged to oppose it in actuality. With due regard for the ever-increasing necessity of government economy it seems clear that the enlisted man is long overdue for a "new deal," and the purse-strings should be tightened at some other point in the army's budget. The base pay of a "buck private" is only $21 a month, some $9 less than the enrollee of the Civilian Conservation Corps. According to recent testimony before the House Appropriations Committee, the average pay of the enlisted man in the navy is $26.81 annually, while that of the enlisted man in the army is $37.29. The navy, with 107,735 men, will spend an estimated $93,118,063 for enlisted pay in the fiscal year 1939, while the army with 162,000 men will spend only $70,842,311.96. This startling difference is largely explained by the higher pay scale of the navy and the greater percentage holding higher grades in the navy. The latter point is largely attributable to the peculiar conditions of service afloat, which require a greater number of petty officers and specialists; but the former is clearly remediable, and the army pay scale should be increased.

The present pay—no matter how it compares with army pay scales in other nations—is clearly out of step, not alone with the pay of other government employees but also with that of retail workers and civilians. Like the British, whose neglect of their army enlisted men has SQUIRRELS are sissies and I can prove it. . . yesterday, the vigilantes at our house noted, one of the neighborhood squirrels cross the lawn and go scampering up the big tree that graces our lot. . . then, zing, down came the squirrel, scrambling as fast as he could make it. . . and why? . . . a robin was chasing him. . . a robin with fire in his chirp and murder in his heart. . . the squirrel turned and darted across the street. AWAY from the robin. . . and the robin hesitated not a bit. . . it swooped low, and, darting and chirping madly, it pursued the fleeing squirrel out of sight. . . following deep deduction and intricate mental calculations, I am ready to announce that there is a robin's nest in the big tree. . .

Let someone come up with a better story than that — but keep it honest.

MAYBE THIS WAS PLANNED THAT WAY, TOO

It is pointed out that the railroads' expenses are higher than they were in 1932 and that the railroads are doing less business than at that date. I am surprised that there is not more agitation in the middle west to remedy this situation — not by government subsidy or operation, but by readjusting restrictions and making it possible for the railroads to compete with other methods of shipment. More than any other part of the country, the middle west depends upon the railroads. The Great Lakes, even by a New Deal fairy tale project, can't be made to serve the middle west as the oceans can serve the east and west coasts.

There was something irritating to me about the way the president spoke of the old frigate in the Charleston shipyard when, after noting its condition, he said that he'd arrange for a federal grant to repair the ship. But he didn't say it that way.

It reminded me of a monarch, who finds something annoying in his realm.

It was nice of the promoters of airmail week to forget about the affair some years ago when a dozen or so army pilots were killed trying to fly the mail as a result of orders that came from Mr. Farley. That's another one of the raps Jim Farley took, although there is some doubt as to whether he really deserves it.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

ONE AT A TIME!

The minutes come, the minutes go
One at a time!
The days proceed in a long row
One at a time.
The weeks, the months, the years go by Ever beneath a changing sky.
They lift the banner of hope high,
One at a time.
The tasks that press me I shall do
One at a time,
Seeing each baffling problem through
One at a time.
When sorrow strikes my heart, I may Learn to approach it in this way,
Knowing cares disappear some day

QUININE PROPHYLAXIS
The chief malaria-carrying mosquito in the United States is the species called Anopheles quadrimaculatus, generally a pond breeder. This mosquito may fly as far as a mile from its breeding place, even against the wind. It breeds preferably in stagnant salt water or fresh water in the open, where the eggs deposited on the surface of the water hatch into larvae or wigglers in a day or two. The larvae are air breathers and have to come to the surface every minute or two for air. After a week or so the larvae are transformed into pupae, which remains at the surface breathing thru a pair of projecting trumpet-shaped tubes for three or four days until finally the winged insect (imago) emerges from the pupal case thru a slit near the breathing tubes. The time from laying of the eggs on the surface of the water until the new generation of mosquitoes flies off averages 10 days.

Neither the malarial mosquito nor any other species can breed in damp grass, weeds or bushes, as some people imagine, altho the winged insects commonly rest and hide in the comparatively shady bushes or deep grass during the heat of the day.

All male mosquitoes are strict vegetarians. It is the females that crave blood, animal blood or human blood. The female must have blood for the full development of their eggs.

Ordinary mosquitoes of the common garden variety are a nuisance, but they do not carry disease. The malaria-carrying kind is readily distinguished from the ordinary harmless mosquito by the position of the mosquito's lights on the surface. The harmless mosquito sits or stands with its body parallel with the surface. The malaria-carrying mosquito sits or stands with its body nearly perpendicular to the surface.

It requires from seventeen days to five weeks for the malarial plasmodium to complete its life cycle in the blood of the mosquito. Therefore the mosquito cannot infect a person thru its bite until from 17 to 35 days after it has sucked malarial blood from a person who had the disease. But once infected the mosquito which is not particularly harmed by the malarial parasite, may remain a carrier for a long time and inoculate a good many persons in the course of her career, before she succumbs to old age or a slap.

The incubation of malaria — the time elapsing from the moment of inoculation until the first symptoms develop — varies from ten days to as long as three months. So you had better keep right on taking your daily prophylactic dose of quinine for that long after you leave the malarial district where you have been visiting or staying for vacation.

Quinine prophylaxis is particularly important where screens and mosquito bars are not available, for travellers, automobile tourists, campers, mariners, hikers, working crews temporarily in the field and vacation visitors.

Fair daily prophylactic dose of quinine is five grains every day you are in the district and for three months after you have left the district. In the latest (sixth) edition of "Preventive Medicine and Hygiene" (Appleton-Century) Rosenau suggests not less than ten grains of quinine daily as a prophylactic dose.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
New York.—Every year at the beginning of the baseball season a new fund of stories dealing with the intellectual shortcomings of the rookies makes the rounds. There is the one about the rookies with the Cincinnati Reds who accompanied the team to the big town, and it was his first glimpse of New York. His room happened to be on the 17th floor of a hotel, and after two days his legs had Charlie-horses and he was so weary he would fall into an exhausted slumber every time he sat down.

"What in the world is the matter with you?" inquired his manager, eyeing the youngster in distress.

"Well, chief," the rookie replied "I ain't used to walking up 17 flights of stairs every time I want to go up to my room."

"Seventeen flights of stairs! Why, you numbskull, ride the elevator," "Can't afford it, chief," explained the youngster seriously.

By this time the manager began to see the light. "You can't afford it, eh?" he said.

"No, sir," went on the rookie. "One of the boys told me it cost 50 cents a ride, and at that rate I wouldn't have anything left. I'll be glad when we get out of this town."

Another story, which I can verify, concerns young Bob Feller, of the Cleveland Indians. But there was nothing wrong with Bob's thinking apparatus in this. It isn't that sort of story. It happens that Bob arrived for his baseball chores with three young rookies in tow. He registered in a hotel and then sought out the manager.

"I've got three kids with me," he said, "who can't afford to pay these rates. Of course, they could go to a cheaper hotel, but they are young and green, and I want them here with me. Now, what I want you to do is charge them $1.50 a day and put the balance on my bill. I don't want them to know I am paying the difference."

And that is what actually took place. The rookies remained several weeks at a swank hotel for the sum of $1.50 a day, never dreaming that several times that sum daily was added to Feller's account.

The man who told me this story was the manager himself. He

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — One way to get into an argument in these woods is to propose government operation of business, but the government already is in one business and is making money at it.

Back in World War times the government put some money into the barge business to relieve the overloaded railroads. When the war ended the business went to pot, but in 1924 Congress started it off again under the title of the Inland Waterways Corporation. You should see it now.

President and board chairman is General T. Q. Ashburn, who looks and talks like Cappy Ricks and occupies a trifle of space in the old munitions building out by the Lincoln memorial. He was put in charge of the business from the start and declares that, honest to goodness (he didn't say goodness), he had to lift some of the barges out of the bottom of the Mississippi where they had sunk from disuse and lack of care.

Business Expands
Congress listed the value of the business when he took over at $10,000,000. General Ashburn says it wasn't worth more than $2,000,000. In 1929, $15,000,000 was appropriated for new towboats and barges to help service along more Mississippi tributaries as well as along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

He started out with 800 men employed and a handful of towboats and barges and has since expanded the operation to 3,200 miles of river and coastal waters, using 29 towboats and 256 steel barges of 500 to 3,000 tons capacity and has a payroll of 3,600 employees.

Congress authorized the corporation to operate until it put the line on its feet and then to sell to private operators. But so many restrictions were put on the sale that General Ashburn seems to believe selling out is well nigh impossible. A primary requisite is that the business is to be sold in units which will insure that the less profitable lines will not be abandoned but will continue to have support from earnings of the best lines. Best paying of all is the Mississippi channel line.

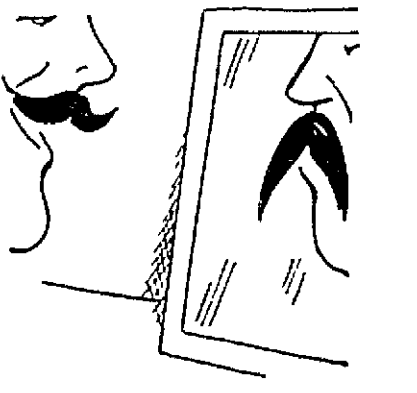

A private bid for the line was put in last year but nothing came of it. President Roosevelt is opposed to selling it at present. Questioned about it at a press conference one time, he asked why sell it when it is making a profit.

Labor Trouble
Ashburn now values the line at $25,000,000 and reports a bank balance of $5,000,000. Recently he turned back $3,000,000 of the $15,000,000 appropriation, saying he didn't need it because profits from the business were sufficient to support the line, build new towboats and barges and to extend the service to other rivers from time to time.

He insists that he pays his labor better than competitive private industry and when a strike recently threatened to tie up the outfit he shut down the whole works for 11 days. It reopened after an agreement was reached to negotiate differences. Part of his trouble, he said, is that his upper Mississippi crews are mostly A. F. of L., while his lower Mississippi and coastal crews are predominantly CIO.

In spite of the President's position, General Ashburn says he is in favor of selling the line into private hands as soon as possible now that it has been demonstrated that the thing can make a profit.

thinks, and so does this reporter, that it was a fine, generous act on the part of Bob Feller.

Interior of Home Damaged by Heavy Soot From Burner

Loss at William Knapstein Residence Estimated At $1,000

New London — Soiling damage estimated at $1,000 by insurance appraisers was caused by heavy soot emanating from an automatic oil burner at the William Knapstein home, 521 Buck street, early Thursday morning.

From the location of the burner in the basement a heavy soot permeated the entire house, upstairs and down, settling everywhere in the home on black walls and soiling rugs and overstuffed furniture. The entire interior will require complete redecorating and all furnishings will require expert cleaning.

The condition was discovered by the family about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Rushing to the basement, Mr. Knapstein extinguished a small blaze which had begun near the burner but otherwise there was no damage by flames. It was believed that a few minutes later would have found the fire uncontrollable.

An emergency chemical fire extinguisher was used for the first time in 23 years of readiness. The New London fire department was not called.

The manner or cause for the failure of the burner was not determined but the machine will be sent to the manufacturer for examination. All losses were fully covered by insurance.

Rain Interferes With Track Work

Runners Try Streets, Gymnasium in Attempt to Keep in Shape

New London — It's rain, rain, rain, this week instead of tramp, tramp as Coach D. N. Stacy and his thinclads look forward woefully to the Northeastern Wisconsin conference track meet scheduled at Neenah tomorrow.

By comparative reports the New London squad should distinguish itself at the meet with a little extra effort but constant rains during the last week have made workouts on the high school grounds impossible.

Desperately, the boys took to city streets yesterday and jogged up and down the road in the rains in an attempt to keep their legs in shape for the grueling conference meet. A few tried sprinting in the high school gymnasium and basement. No regular practices have been held since Monday.

The Red and White will be represented by the same tracksters who competed in the district meet at Wisconsin Rapids. Tomorrow's meet, if run, will provide the keenest competition yet experienced by the Stacymen and may inspire some new records.

A junior track meet will be held at the Washington High school next week for all grade school boys in the city. Coach Stacy announced yesterday. Weather permitting, the contests will be held Monday afternoon, otherwise on Tuesday.

All of last year's teams and other groups interested in softball have been invited to have one or more representatives at the meeting.

The league will have several important problems to face this year, the largest being the matter of using lights at the city athletic park. Unless some plan of financing can be devised, the league will be restricted to twilight games and those will have to be played at the Washington High school grounds because of the several hard ball teams working out at the city park each evening.

Six teams in the league last year were Hamiltons, Bordens, Edison, Plywood, Gehrke Brothers and Miller High Lites.

The quartet and soloists will participate in the state music contests at Madison on May 28, having won honors at the district music festival at New London. Everett Goli is director of the band, which now consists of 48 members.

Following the program, a business meeting was held during which the question of buying new band uniforms was discussed. At present the band uniform consists of a cape and cap of black trimmed with orange, which are worn with white shirts, white trousers and white shoes furnished by the student. More of these would have to be purchased as Mr. Goli stated that he intends to increase the band to include about 70 players within the next year or two.

Members of the P. T. A. expressed the opinion that the Clintonville High school band should be as well uniformed as the bands of the neighboring cities and villages, including Shawano, New London, Weyauwega, Marion and Birmingwood, all of which have complete uniforms consisting of a coat, trousers and cap. Following an informal discussion on the subject, it was voted to have the Parent-Teacher association purchase a complete set of uniforms for the high school band. The committee in charge includes: Clarence Zachow, Max Stieg, Dr. J. H. Murphy, S. H. Sanford, A. G. Eohr and Herbert Boeve. This group will work in conjunction with Superintendent of Schools Harley J. Powell and the Band Director Goli. The P. T. A. also went on record as being in favor of extending an invitation to hold the district music festival in Clintonville in 1939 or 1940.

Capacity Crowd Applauds Valley Little Theater Players in 3-Act Comedy

EXCELLENT CHARACTERIZATION in a play which depended almost entirely for its effectiveness on character delineation placed "Ladies of the Jury," 3-act comedy which was presented before a capacity crowd last night at Outagamie county courthouse, well among the forefront of successes given by the Little Theater of the Fox River Valley. The play will be repeated at 8:30 tonight.

It would be hard to pick a star at last night's performance for most of the parts were well portrayed and contributed to the general effect. Stage business which often proves the bugaboo of amateur actors was worked out carefully and timed perfectly, and each bit of business rounded out the character of the person handling it, to give him or her a more complete personality.

Maurice L. Hunt, Neenah, who already has proved his ability as an actor, showed last night that he can direct as well, for he directed this play, his first for the Little Theater. His assistants were Jane Sensenbrenner, Neenah, and Ethel Stallman, Appleton.

The entire cast handled the scenes of high excitement very well, one of the best scenes in the play being the one in which Steve Bromm, resenting a remark made about his wife by Tony Theodophilus, leaps across the table and tries to grapple with him while the other jurors attempt to restrain them both. The audience got one of its biggest laughs from the opening scene of the third act when the jurors are discovered stretched out on tables and draped over chairs, snoring in various keys.

Plays Society Matron
The heaviest part in the play was carried by Joan Hoffmann who gave a good performance of Mrs. Livingston-Baldwin Crane, society matron who is serving on her first jury. She made the most of her lines which were full of subtle humor, and her pantomime rounded out the characterization. Cecile Haag as Miss Lily Pratt, president of the Society for the Surveillance and Suppression of Vice, was in character throughout the play, maintaining an attitude of rigorous self-righteousness and narrow-minded bigotry. Her every remark has the earmarks of a proclamation, and her clashes with various members of the jury brought some of the best laughs in the show.

Another heavy part was that of Jay J. Pressley, foreman of the jury, which was handled ably by Robert Meyers. He was particularly good in his pompous scenes, and his sudden transition from unbending and uncompromising "solid citizen" to nerve-shattered and beaten victim of circumstances was well done. Nate Wauda, Neenah, made a somewhat smaller part outstanding and noteworthy. His portrayal of Steve Bromm, ex-soldier and garage owner, was full of vitality and his lines were put across admirably.

Scot, Irish Roles
Howard Aderhold, Neenah, who appeared as Andrew MacKag, Scotch gardener, gave a fine interpretation of the role and handled the difficult Scotch "burr" convincingly. The part of Mrs. Macquire was well played by Marie Dohr who carried the Irish brogue throughout and threw in a bit of a jig for good measure. Good bits of acting were contributed by Laide Van den Akker as Mrs. Dace, a Southern bride who wanted to get home to her Harry, and Arthur Brown, Neenah, who appeared to advantage as Spencer B. Dazey, realtor.

Ruth Feotter as Mayme Mixer and Joseph Gilman as Tony Theodophilus, chain candy store owner, not only provided the more robust romance in the play, but also much of the humor with their slangy love-making and their disregard for the "inner sensibilities" of the other jurors. Balancing this team were Cynthia Tate, a young girl just out of college, played by Christie Jersild, Neenah, and Alonzo Beal, a poet, taken by Don Stone, whose idealistic love scenes were a foil for the boisterous scenes between Tony and Mayme.

In the first act which was the scene in the courtroom, outstanding performances were given by Gilbert K. Hill, Neenah, as Judge Fish, Henry Jung, Neenah, as Halsey Van Stine, and Bertha Barry as Yvette Gordon, the defendant. The latter handled a French accent well and displayed sincere emotion. Bud Hansen as Rutherford Dale, attorney for the defense, Paul Strange, Jr., Neenah, as Dr. James, and Doris Triton as Evelyn Snow, a witness, were well cast. David Bliss took the part of the clerk of court, Ralph Schubert was Officer Bill Debus, and Jane Sensenbrenner, Neenah, appeared as Suzanne. Mrs. Cronos maid, while Ethel Stallman was court reporter.

Never put woodenware directly over the heat to dry. That causes the wood to warp, and perhaps to crack. Thoroughly dry it, however, before putting it in a cupboard, since it may mildew if you store it too soon. Let it stand in a room of moderate temperature, or near the stove.

Charity 'Supreme Law,' Bishop Tells Apostolate Group

Diocesan Head Is Speaker At Organization's Anniversary Dinner

Describing charity as the "supreme law of humanity today," the Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, D. D., bishop of Green Bay and president of the Diocesan Apostolate, told members of the Appleton Apostolate at their twenty-fifth anniversary meeting last night in St. Joseph's hall that what they have already accomplished will "bring an assurance that the work is destined to go on unflinchingly."

The Apostolate is now on a "firm foundation," the bishop said, and "before long will have an army of workers whose aims and ambitions must be reflected in every community where they exist."

Calling attention to the "wars and rumors of wars" in the world, he said: "We are entering a new phase of social existence, a new and more promising order. . . . It is through the fire of afflictions that people and nations rise to higher planes." Underlining the need for active participation by the laity of the Apostolate's program of physical and spiritual aid is to reach its objectives, he said, that the "force which opens up the approach to hearts and souls is not dogmatic truth as much as true, Christian charity."

Diocesan Director Talks

Preceding the bishop on the program was the Rev. Henry C. Head, Green Bay, diocesan director, and Gustave Keller, director of the Appleton Apostolate. The bishop and diocesan director were introduced by the Rev. John O'Donovan, O. M. Cap.

Eleven new directors, six from St. Joseph's church, three from St. Mary's church, and two from St. Theresa church, were elected to the Apostolate board last night.

They are as follows: St. Mary, Mrs. John R. Riedl, Mrs. George Nemachek, Patrick J. Heenan; St. Joseph's, Miss Hildegard Kitzinger, Mrs. August Arens, Mrs. George Maurer, Gustave Keller, Joseph A. Weber, Leo H. Rechner; St. Theresa, Mrs. A. J. Pfankuch, Mrs. George Gerrits.

Charity Common Bond

The spirit of charity, as exemplified by the Appleton Apostolate, is a "sound platform on which we all can go hand in hand . . . and work to raise the rung of human progress," Bishop Rhode told the assembly. He reminded them that organized charity, now an accepted principle in our lives, has not always existed in the world, that there was a time when the "tooth and claw was law" and it was not believed that a human "has a positive right to the love of his neighbor and certain degrees of consideration."

"That time, despite the shortcomings of the present day, is gone," he said. "If anything has helped humanity to better stages of existence, it is charity, which now has become the duty of city, state, and nation."

The Rev. Fr. Head in his talk dealt with the growth of the responsibility of aid to the needy from local agencies to where it now has become "the most important function of the government."

Move Was Necessary

It was necessary for the government to assume this new obligation, Fr. Head said, because of the millions of men thrown out of work and made destitute during the depressions.

Men not only lost their jobs but their "spirits and souls as well," he said. "If anything has helped humanity to better stages of existence, it is charity, which now has become the duty of city, state, and nation."

Airmail 'Pickup' Plane Is Due in Appleton Today

Rain Lessens; Scheduled Flights Expected to Be Made

Although the sky was still dark today, rain had subsided over enough of the state so that it appeared most of the airplane "pickups" for National Airmail week would be made.

Postmaster Stephen Balliet received a telegram from Postmaster John Leissner of Milwaukee, state chairman, that the flights would be made at the "pilot's discretion." Airports too wet for safe landings will be avoided. Scheduled yesterday, flights were postponed because of rain and fog.

Balliet said he expected the plane scheduled for Appleton would arrive here about 4 o'clock this afternoon. The plane which will carry pouches of mail from Appleton and nearby cities and towns of Milwaukee will come here directly from Ripon. It will visit Fond du Lac and West Bend after leaving this city on its way to Milwaukee.

Residents of Appleton this week were given the opportunity to place a special cachet on their letters designated for the special airplane flight. The cachet bears the picture of a plane in flight and an apple with the syllable "ton" written on it. A special Airmail Week National stamp also has been issued. Postmaster Balliet said this morning there had been an "appreciable gain" in the demand for airmail stamps this week.

Hit-Run Driver Loses License for One Year

William Skenandore, 35, route 2, Kaukauna, in municipal court this morning was fined $10 and costs and his license revoked for one year by Judge Thomas H. Ryan after the motorist pleaded guilty of failing to stop and give his name and address following an accident. Skenandore's car was in a collision involving a motorcycle Wednesday night on County Trunk E a mile east of Appleton. Gerald Smith, 19, Sherman place, driver of the motorcycle, and Winton Glaser, 19, 327 N. Superior street, who was riding with Smith, were cut and bruised in the crash.

Sun Tries Hard, But Is Repulsed

Dark Clouds Still Dominate Skies; Showers Expected Tonight

After being counted among the missing for several days, the sun suddenly showed itself about 11 o'clock this morning in Appleton, bringing exclamations of joy and sighs of relief to the rain-rattled populace.

Old Sol smiled benevolently for awhile, then scuttled, just as suddenly, back behind a dark cloud, presumably at the bidding of the weather-man who predicts local showers tonight, gloomy skies and continued cool tomorrow. Old Sol tried to get loose a few times this afternoon, but he was pretty well boxed in by sullen clouds.

At 12:30 this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 60 degrees. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 55 and the lowest, 48, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. Rainfall measured .21 of an inch during the 24 hours.

Montgomery, Ala., reported the nation's maximum yesterday, 94. Yellowstone's 30 degrees was low.

PARENTS REFUSE TO WHIP SONS

Ordered by a judge at Fitchburg, Mass., to whip their sons for stealing wire from a railroad signal system, the parents of these boys, William Allen (left) and Harold Woodworth, refused to carry out the order because it was "uncivilized." The judge decreed whipping of the boys within three weeks. The boys, 15 and 16 respectively, said they didn't steal the wire, but only cut it.

Roosevelt Has No Part in Oregon Primary Election Race, He Tells Reporters

Washington — (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he was taking no part in the Oregon Democratic primary election.

The president made the statement while explaining to newsmen that he would not comment upon the outcome of Tuesday's primary in Pennsylvania. Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy went down in defeat there despite his endorsement by Postmaster General James A. Farley.

In the Oregon primary Governor Charles H. Martin, seeking re-election, has been criticized by both Secretary Ickes and Senator Norris (I-Neb.), who accused him, in effect, of not being a true "New Dealer."

Mr. Roosevelt, while making no reference to the Ickes criticism of Martin, indicated his own policy and that of the administration, officially at least, was to keep hands off.

No Part in Primaries

Mr. Roosevelt said he would not comment on the Pennsylvania election because he took no part in it and that he was taking no part in the Oregon election either.

John L. Lewis, the CIO leader, was scheduled for lunch at the White House today, and Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether Pennsylvania politics might be the subject of conversation. Lewis backed the defeated Kennedy in the primary.

The president replied that he believed they would discuss other matters.

At another point he declined to discuss in any way the political situation in Minnesota. He was asked whether he desired the election of a Democratic governor in Minnesota.

He said he did not think he would make any announcement about whom he favored at this time, since a question about one state would lead to endless inquiries about others.

Another interrogator asked Mr. Roosevelt whether there would be a strong third party in 1940. His reply was that he was sorry but he was no prophet.

Autos Damaged in Two Minor Traffic Crashes

Two minor traffic accidents were reported in the city yesterday to police. The first occurred at 1:30 in the afternoon on Lawrence street. Martin Kolosso, 34, 550 N. Richmond street, had stopped his car when it was struck by a machine being driven east by Mrs. Marie Massonette, 1414 W. Washington street, according to police. Both machines were damaged. Machines driven by George Hubbard, 82, 827 E. Franklin street, and Mrs. R. C. Yonts, 1038 E. Vine street, were involved in a crash on S. Oneida street at 8:15 last evening. Hubbard had stopped at College avenue when his car was struck in the rear by the machine of Mrs. Yonts, police were told. Both cars were damaged.

physician was present during Duncan's examination.

"No, sir," Cohn answered. "Dr. Schlueter passed out as I came in." The court, principals, and spectators burst into laughter. Joining in, Cohn explained Schlueter left the room.

Henry Lee, police jailer the night of Duncan's arrest, brought the names of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan and Chief of Police Joseph Kluchey into the trial. Testifying as to Duncan's incarceration, Lee said Duncan placed a telephone call from the city jail and asked for Hoan's residence.

Phoned Mayor's Home

"He introduced himself as Tom Duncan and talked two or three minutes," Lee testified. "Duncan told me he wanted to call the chief. I telephoned downstairs and then informed Duncan the chief knew he was up in the cell block. Duncan said nothing."

Police Lieutenant Fred Mieczek told of questioning Duncan at length after his arrest.

"Duncan asked me why we were holding him," Mieczek said. "I told him because he was drunk. He said 'you can't prove that; I'm all right.' I said, 'If you are not drunk what's wrong with you?' He said 'Nothing,' that he was all right. I later informed him the man struck on the Wisconsin avenue viaduct had been pronounced dead. Duncan said he did not strike anyone."

Steffes indicated the state would complete its case with the calling of one or two more witnesses. The defense said it would require a day and a half for its case.

Hints at Alimony

"You do not know whether Mr. Duncan was suffering any ailment?" Poss asked. Cohn replied in the negative.

"Mr. Duncan answered your questions with no attempt at evasion?" "None whatever," Cohn said.

Questioned about the appearance of Duncan's eyes, the surgeon said he gained the impression Duncan was tired and sleepy.

Relief, Welfare Work to be Topic At Open Meeting

Ministers, Charitable Organizations Invited To Take Part

Fox River Valley Ministerial association will sponsor a relief and welfare institute next Monday night at the Y.M.C.A. to which officers of all denominations as well as Catholic priests have been invited. The meeting, which will open with a dinner at 6 o'clock is being held for the purpose of giving and receiving information concerning the various relief and welfare agencies in Appleton and the work they are doing.

Those who will give 10-minute talks on the work of their respective organizations are as follows: F. A. W. Hammond, city relief and welfare and federal relief; Mrs. Josephine Versteeg, city nurse; Miss Mary Orsborn, city school nurse; H. J. Piette, WPA recreational work; T. S. David, aid to dependent children and widows' pensions; Sheriff John Lappen, transient relief; Mrs. Mabel Shannon, Red Cross; Gustave Keller, Appleton Apostolate; Charles Huesemann, Sr., of Miss Mary Stolt, Appleton Relief and Welfare council. An open forum will follow the talks.

Because there are about 50 organizations doing some type of relief or welfare work in Appleton and because the time is limited at a meeting of this kind, the ministerial association hopes to have another meeting at a later date when other organizations will be asked to present the work of their groups.

These other organizations are being asked to attend the meeting Monday night and to participate in the forum and give information about their work should the question be raised.

Request Jury Trial on Drunken Driving Charge

Charles Gorchels, 303 Park street, Kaukauna, who pleaded not guilty of drunken driving and of failure to leave his name and address following an accident, requested a jury trial when he appeared in municipal court this morning. The trial was set for Monday by Judge Thomas H. Ryan.

Gorchels, Kaukauna police charge, broke off a light pole and then left the scene of the accident on the night of May 10 at Kaukauna.

Continue Conferences With Equipment Bidders

Conferences with bidders on equipment for the new senior high school were continued today by the board of education at the new school building. The meetings were scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday but all the salesmen were not heard during the two days. Contracts will be awarded at a regular meeting of the board at 7:30 Tuesday evening at Lincoln school.

It Is Said--

That after Wednesday night's council session when aldermen competed with each other giving orations on apparent unimportant subjects instead of completing city business, the mayor is contemplating enforcement of council rule No. 7. The rule reads, "No member of the council shall speak more than twice on any question and only ten minutes at a time without permission."

That according to a German tradition warm weather has come to stay this season. The days of the three icemen, Honratius, Servatius and Pconcratius, which are May 17, 18 and 19 have passed. The tradition holds that these invariably are cold or very cold days and the icemen on those days guarded against the cold.

Average of 80 Men Employed on Bell Heights Sewer Job

An average of 80 WPA workers are being employed on a project to extend sewage facilities in the unincorporated village of Bell Heights and to connect the system with Appleton's interceptors and treatment plant, according to Mark Muth, WPA district director.

The project calls for the construction of 13,400 feet of sanitary sewers. Work was started in April and will be completed in about nine months, Muth said.

A contract between Appleton and Bell Heights is being drawn by Harry P. Hoeffel, city attorney, granting the use of Appleton's system. Bell Heights is to pay $1.75 per year for each of its 860 sewer connections, about $1,500 per year for the entire population.

Babson Says Small Investors Should Form Own Alliance

Suggests Stockholder's Union to Check Corporation Officials

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Mass.—The average small stockholder is a sucker! He puts his money into the securities of companies about which he knows little or nothing. The information he receives is vague, incomplete, and meaningless. He has practically no voice in the company's affairs. Decisions are concentrated in the hands of an inside group of officials, bankers, and lawyers. Small stockholders need a union which would take its place beside the management's "luncheon club" and Labor Local No. 102. These stockholders should make their influence felt.

One of the major faults of the railroads today is absentee ownership. Banker and lawyer managements have run many roads into the ash heap. Stupid handling of labor problems has raised havoc with the carriers. Few of these directors would handle their own money as they have handled their stockholders' funds. The same is true of the directors of utility, motor, movie, food, and other mammoth concerns.

We grow about graft in public places, but do the real results of the excess of the huge salaries which have been paid in private places?

Few Bouquets

We used to hear a lot about how this and that "captain of industry" built his company. We saluted Mr. So-and-So because his company was a trail-blazer in scientific research. We never heard, however, about the thousands of John Q. Stockholders who owned the corporation. It was their money which paid the huge advertising bills. It was their money that financed the research laboratories. Often the only bouquet these stockholders receive is the corporation's annual report. It starts off every year as follows: "During the past year your company, etc., etc." Some stockholders actually believe the "your company" stuff?

It is too bad that the small stockholders do not make themselves more useful. They could do so if they would only be more obnoxious to the clique which runs their company. It is a shame that the thousands of little fellows cannot have militant representatives at the temples of the mighty. It is unfortunate that an investor's union with a real punch behind it cannot ask the president why he feels that he should receive a bigger annual salary than the average stockholder receives in his entire lifetime? The president may not be an inventor; he may not be an engineer; he may not be a salesman; he may not even be a particularly hard worker. Just what does he do to earn his enormous salary?

General Offices

It is too bad that the country shareowner cannot visit "his" company's general offices. It is not giving him many new ideas on re-decorating his own offices down in Oklahoma, Mississippi, Deep plush chairs, richly finished mahogany furniture, thick soft rugs, Venetian blinds, air-conditioning, receptionists with Park avenue accents—all this would make quite a sensation back home. It might even create a ripple of interest among Washington architects! But without these luxuries our Mississippi friend has been able to sell his product at low price. He has not been cheating his customers. He has kept his overhead down and has put quality into his product.

But many people tell you there is no real need for a stockholders' union. Do they think that no corporation chieftain would install his own son as vice president of the company? Do not think this occurs only in public life! Do they believe that no business official would pad his expense account? Do not believe that only politicians can get big mileage allowances! Do they imagine that no employee would be fired for holding liberal ideas? Do not imagine that is all propaganda and nonsense put out by the national labor relations board! Have not bankers been guilty of wrong decisions? Have not corporations tried unduly to influence public opinion?

Slowly Improving
Big Business has plenty for which to answer. Corporation executives have done things that public officials could never get away with. By high-handed and self-indulgent policies they have hurt the cause of business in America to the tune of untold billions. President Roosevelt, our best friend, has also unfortunately hurt business and increased unemployment by his relentless, intemperate antagonism. To watch over their own interests, therefore, investors need a protective organization just as workers need unions and political parties need machines!

Yet, I am an optimist. The very fact that your newspaper is publishing this article shows the world is progressing! In 1929, the nation had no conscience about these things. To criticize graft or inefficiency in high places was considered treason. Now, this has

Fewer Traffic Accidents in County Thus Far This Year, but More Hurt

While there have been fewer accidents this year since Jan. 1 in Outagamie county, the number of injured greatly exceeds that for the same period of 1937, according to records of the Post-Crescent.

Up to May 18 of this year there were 113 accidents reported as compared to 131 for the same period of 1937. However, there were 98 persons injured this year as compared to 73 up to May 18 last year.

Although the number of accidents and injured this year is comparatively high, only three persons have met death on the highways of the county thus far as against 12 last year. Meanwhile city and county police continue their work of accident prevention through giving safety talks, strict enforcement of the traffic laws and advice to motorists.

With final reports for the third month of the year in to the state highway commission, March records show a reduction of deaths of 39.2, 31 persons being killed during the month as compared to 41 in March of 1937 in the state.

Of fatalities on streets and highways of the state last month, four were caused by hit-run drivers, one by a head-on collision, four by skids or blowouts, two by drunken drivers, one by drunken pedestrian, and eleven by some traffic violation.

The commission points out that the reduction in fatalities and accidents is not a result of any one activity. The cooperative work of the county safety councils, the press and radio, traffic enforcement officers and educational programs in and out of school are beginning to show results, the commission states in urging that it be continued.

largely changed. Our nation has been experiencing a slow-moving character improvement during the past eight years. The very fact that people today criticize what they applauded ten years ago is one basic reason why I believe we are headed for better business and higher security prices!

It's Odd But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
Rochester, N. Y. — When the baby demolishes an "unbreakable" tumbler, the U. S. Bureau of Standards knows why.

It is one of those things that cannot happen but really do, Dr. Gordon M. Kline, of the bureau, tells the American Society for Testing Materials.

The unbreakable wear is made of plastic materials. These are usually formaldehyde plus phenol, or plus urea. In science they are known as "thermosetting." That is, they harden under heat, and afterward heat does not affect them.

But, Dr. Kline explains, it takes just the right amount of heat. Too little makes a weak article. Too much makes a brittle tumbler. That is the kind the baby wrecks. Too much heat comes from hurrying the heat-curing process. The demand for speed to keep down costs leads to slips.

Not even the expert with a microscope can detect flaws in a hurried tumbler.

"Small wonder," Dr. Kline says, "that one hears so many tales of the 'unbreakable' tumbler which the baby demolished."

Lauder Looks Forward To Another U. S. Visit

Albuquerque, N. M.—(P)—Harry Lauder, singing Scotsman, has disclosed in a letter to pupils of Eugene Field school here that he hopes to make another tour in the U. S. A. and Canada.

The pupils listened recently to a Lauder broadcast from Scotland, then wrote him they enjoyed the program.

Lauder replied immediately, saying: "I certainly appreciate the American appreciation of my songs and work." He added that "good boys make good men, good men always are respected."

VILLAGE PLANNED
San Francisco —(P)—The dreams of children about candy growing on bushes and mountains of ice cream will come true at the Golden Gate International exposition next year.

So announced Frederick Weddleton, chief of concessions as he set aside four acres for a children's village in which the main attraction—and even much of the structural material—will be sweets.

BEE STINGS
Los Angeles—(P)—Dr. Raymond B. Carey has received the city's permission to keep a colony of bees in his office, because he uses them in the treatment of arthritis. The bee's sting contains a venom which is "hemorrhagic and neurotoxic," he says, and patients endure it to rid themselves of the more persistent pains of diseases.

Bridegroom Collapses But Ceremony Goes on

Sittingbourne, England—(P)—You've heard many stories about bridegrooms with shaky knees. Well, the bridegroom's knees gave away completely during a ceremony here recently.

"I will," he said—and collapsed in a dead faint at the feet of his bride.

Bride, best man and vicar hastened to his aid, a member of the congregation ran for water and in a few minutes he had revived sufficiently to go on through with the rites.

Cut AAA Penalty Rate on General Farm Plantings

Seeding Done Before Allotments Were Received Is Cause of Reduction

Because many farmers of Wisconsin and other states had not yet received their acreage allotments in advance of the early spring plantings, the Agricultural Adjustment administration announces in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, county agent, that deductions for excess acreage plantings of general soil-depleting crops have been set at a lower rate.

The state AAA committee has learned that the deduction rate, formerly eight times the benefit payment rate, has been reduced to five times the rate at which benefit payments will be made on wheat and general soil-depleting acreage allotments. The committee emphasizes that the only change is in the deduction rate on excess plantings. There is no change in the acreage allotments for Wisconsin crops and the deductions for excess plantings of special crops, such as potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets and, in the six southern corn counties, of corn remain at the rate announced last spring.

Officials of the AAA explain that this change in the general deduction rate is made so that the penalty will be less severe on farmers who made their early spring plantings before they knew what their acreage allotments would be. They point out, however, that the need for such acreage allotments still exists.

For the nation as a whole, the benefit payment rate for the general soil-depleting acreage allotment will average about $1.25 an acre. This varies from state to state and farm to farm according to the productivity of the land.

40-Acre Allotment
Thus, a farm of average fertility may have a general soil-depleting acreage allotment of 40 acres. The benefit payment rate of $1.25 an acre on his farm would establish a claim of 40 times $1.25 or $50. If 42 acres are actually planted to general soil-depleting crops for 1938 harvest, then there will be a deduction from this claim for the two extra acres.

As the benefit payment rate per acre is $1.25, then the deduction would be five times $1.25 or $6.25 for each of the two acres, a total deduction of $12.50 from the maximum payment of $50. The net benefit payment of $37.50 on the soil-depleting acreage allotment would then be added to other payments due on the farm. Under the former rate of eight times the payment, the deduction of 20 would have left a balance of only $30.

On farms that claim wheat benefit payments (have a wheat acreage allotment), the deductions for excess acreages of wheat and general soil-depleting crops would be greater. This is because the wheat benefit payments per acre are greater and because any excess acreages over the combined acreage allotments are counted as overplantings of wheat. However, the state committee learns that the deduction on such wheat farms would be at five times the wheat payment rate for 1938 rather than eight times as under the earlier regulation.

Weed Destroying Plan Also Kills Off Grass

One way to clear brush and noxious weeds from land is to turn in goats enough to keep the bushes stripped bare and the weeds clipped close to the ground until the roots starve and plants die, according to a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, county agent from the Soil Conservation service.

Unintentionally, a good many farmers follow practically the same plan in pastures they really want to keep productive, says A. T. Semple of the Soil Conservation service. On their grasslands they pasture so many animals and for such a long season that the tops of the good grass plants have no chance to feed the roots and to store food reserves that the plants require for growth. The result is the death of the best grasses and a lowering of the grazing both in quality and quantity.

Boy in 8th Year Of 4-H Club Work

Earl Krueger, Route 2, Kaukauna, Has Bull Entered in Special Project

Earl Krueger, route 2, Kaukauna, is now in his eighth year of 4-H club work and has this year entered his purchased Holstein bull calf in the special bull project sponsored by the 4-H leaders federation and the breeders of Outagamie county. Earl received his seventh achievement award last year. He has been enrolled in the calf project for seven years and in the grain project eight years.

This year he is assisting with the leadership of his club, the Kaukauna 4-H, as a junior leader. He exhibited a calf in the state fair of 1935 and has taken part in demonstration contests in the county on two different teams.

Earl's calf was born Nov. 22, 1937 and is from his father's herd. The dam of the calf has two production records averaging 8,585 pounds of milk containing 324.8 pounds of butterfat in 305 days, twice a day milking mature equivalent in dairy herd improvement work.

The Kaukauna club was organized in 1929 with C. D. Towsley, Kaukauna, as leader. The club now consists of 16 members and 3 adult leaders. Present leaders are Miss Ann Toman, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krueger.

Sheep and Lambs Up in Numbers and in Values

The number of all sheep and lambs on farms Jan. 1, 1938, is estimated at 52,918,000 head, which is 330,000 head larger than a year earlier, according to a bulletin of the bureau of agriculture economics received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The number of stock sheep was smaller than a year ago, but the larger number of lambs on feed brought the total above last year. The number of stock sheep was below a year earlier in nearly all of the important western sheep states except Texas and Wyoming, and the total in the 13 western sheep states was 406,000 head smaller. The value per head, $6.12, of all sheep and lambs was 10 cents higher than a year earlier, and the total value of $323,746,000 was about $7,400,000 larger.

Entertains Happy 4-H Girls at Greenville

Games and musical selections entertained members of the Pleasant Corners Happy 4-H girls at a meeting Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Leo Schreiter, Greenville. Lois Schreiter played the clarinet, Mae Huebner the guitar and Norana Trauba the piano.

The members decided to bring their sewing to future meetings in order that the leaders may help them. Mrs. Schreiter helped the girls with their scrap books and stuffed animals. The meeting closed with community singing of club songs and the club pledge. The next meeting will be June 6 at the home of Norana Trauba, Greenville.

Be A Safe Driver

Opposed to Use of Unplanted Cotton Acres for Raising Dairy Feed Crops

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Federal crop curtailment programs, University of Wisconsin agricultural economists concluded today, may encourage competition of other states, particularly those in the south, with Wisconsin's dominant dairying industry but there is no statistical evidence so far that recent southern dairying expansion is any more significant than the expansion of dairying in that area during the last decade.

Examining the potential effect of the agricultural adjustment act of 1938 on the Wisconsin agricultural industry—and dairying is by far the largest unit of that industry—staff members of the state College of Agriculture in a bulletin today gave it as their opinion that "since the A.A.A. of 1938 will not increase the market for cotton, wheat and pork products, there is no reason to believe it will check the expansion of dairying in corn and cotton regions."

In a cautious analysis of the federal farm program, its background, methods and objectives, the scientists added that "the higher prices for cotton which may result from the new AAA will apply only to a limited amount of cotton, not all the cotton that can be produced."

Encourage Production
It is significant, they pointed out, that other phases of the new farm program "definitely encourage the production of soil-conserving and food and feed crops. Cotton, a fiber crop, will be replaced by feed crops. While the shift might have occurred without a farm program, it will be hastened by the program. If not, there would be no reason for the program."

Certainly the cotton, wheat and corn-hor farmers are justified in attempting to protect themselves from losses due to the limitation of their foreign markets by the protective tariff policy the country has followed. But if this protection is to be accomplished by reducing the production of corn, cotton, and wheat is not the dairy farmer justified in asking that acres released from the production of these crops not be used to grow feed for dairy cows?

The latter question summarizes the views of Wisconsin agricultural leaders, who urged on their congressman a provision in the new farm bill providing that unplanted cotton acres not be used for dairy feed crops which might endanger Wisconsin's dairying industry. The amendment, proposed by Congressman Boileau of Wisconsin, failed, and state agricultural interests continue to show concern about the threat of a rising southern dairy industry encouraged by the federal agricultural policies.

WITH Coe, Knox and Lawrence colleges slated for the first three positions in the final tabulations, Midwest conference track and field squads will gather here Saturday for the eighteenth annual running of the event and the second time it has been held at George A. Whiting field. The first time was in 1930. Coe college derives its strength from a fairly well-balanced squad headed by several good sprinters, middle distance men, hurdles and jumpers. Knox boasts of jumpers, hurdlers and fair talent in the sprints and runs. Lawrence will have strength in the shot and discus, in the middle distance runs, the sprints and hurdles and in the high jump. That should make the Vikes favorites but in events where the squad places first it probably won't cop other points and where it has also runs they won't be much better than third place.

Start at 1:30
The field events are scheduled to begin at 1:30 with the track events at 2 o'clock. There probably will be heats in the sprints and hurdles.
Each school is allowed to enter 15 men with not more than 2 men to an event.

Although the rain and wet weather of the last few days have made the track soft, its condition isn't as bad as might be expected. Workmen were putting finishing touches on it today and creating indications on the field so that spectators might know the heights and distances in the field events. Bleachers have been put up near the finish lines and the Lawrence "L" club has been given the policing job. No spectators will be allowed inside the track.
Results of the various events will be announced over a loud speaker system together with the score of the meet. There will be no court of honor but winners of events will be asked to mount a platform, will be introduced and presented with their medals by the honorary reference of the meet, Dr. Thomas N.
Barrows, president of Lawrence.

The Officials
Professor George W. Bryant of Coe, conference secretary, has been named referee and starter with Dean John R. Mills of Lawrence as clerk of course and Fred Leech as assistant. Judges of the finish will be Werner Witte, Ray Harman, Russell Flom, William Kelleit, Walter Dixon and Ray Montieth.
Timers will be R. Joosten, President Barrows, the Rev. L. C. Smith, George Limpert, and the Rev. J. B.
Hanna.

Inspectors will be K. Craig, Prof.
S. F. Darling, Ray Risch and the Rev. W. J. Spicer. Scorers will be Richard and Robert Graef and the announcer will be Joseph Koffend.
Judges of weight events will be Homer Gebhardt, Vincent Jones, Ken Westberg, Eric Volkert, Wallace Cole, Charles Pond, Paul Lor-fuss and G. Hasse; of the jumps, Prof. Thomas Kenler, Chris Larsen, John Reever, Prof. W. A. Roz-gers, Gordon Walker and Palmer Mc-Connell. Medals and trophies will be taken care of by Ed Powers. R. J.
Watts will have charge of the grounds, J. R. Mills of policing, ushering and tickets and Henry Johnson of publicity and press.
Lawrence has never won a Midwest title and while it must be admitted the Vikes have a chance this season, Coach A. C. Denney isn't the one to do the admitting. Last year Lawrence finished third and the year previous in the same position.
Denney has estimated that it will take 41 points to win the title and he doesn't feel his Vikings can garner that many.

The Vike mentor isn't ready to commit himself on his entries yesterday for he admitted he'd probably be awake nights until Saturday figuring how to enter men.
However, the possible Lawrence entrants and some of their closest competitors follow:

100-yard dash — Joe Graf will be Lawrence's best man and having been clocked at 14 flat he should win. He won the event a year ago and no one has bettered his best time. Cochran may be entered for the Vikes. Gates of Be-loft with a 10.1 in his credit is expected to be Graf's closest competitor.

220-yard dash — Graf is the fastest Vike but he doesn't always stand the strain of the long dash.

LAWRENCE TRACK SQUAD COMPETES IN MIDWEST

Midwest conference track and field teams will gather at George A. Whiting field of Lawrence college tomorrow afternoon for the 18th annual running of the meet and the second time it has been held here.

Lawrence isn't favored to cop the championship but it will be among the leaders if the dope runs true to form. And given a few breaks, the Vikes may crash through in a sport in which they haven't placed better than third.

Triangular Track Meet

Is Switched to Oshkosh

Milwaukee — (AP) — A triangular track meet between Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Whitewater Teachers' colleges, originally scheduled here, will be held Saturday at Oshkosh. It was announced yesterday. The meet was transferred at the request of Coach Bob Kolf of Oshkosh.

Giants' Lead Is Cut to 41-2 Games When Bill Lee, Cubs Beat Them, 1 to 0

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, taking advantage of a momentary break in the enemy's pitching defenses, cut the Giants' National league lead to 41 games yesterday with a 10 inning, 1 to 0 victory in a tight flinging, duel that saw Bill Lee go the route for the first time this season.

The win gave Charley Grimm's outfit the current series, two games to one.

For nine frames Lee and Harry Gumbert, usually a Cub jinx, hooked up in a hurling duel as close as your next breath. The Giants were unable to get a man past second base, and only two got that far. The Cubs got only two around to third.

In the first of the tenth, however, Gumbert's control deserted him and he walked Lee and Stan Hack in order, with one out. Billy Herman came through in the "clutch" with a line single to left that sent Lee across the plate with the one and only run of the game.

Lee, who had failed to last the nine inning route in his six previous starting assignments, gave up only five singles, two of them to Johnny McCarthy, and did not walk a batter. Gumbert was tagged for only six safe blows, but walked four.

Reynolds Bat Star
Carl Reynolds, come-backing to the major leagues this season, collected two of the Cub hits and gave Gumbert several anxious moments.

In the fifth, with one out, he singled through third base, stole second and went to third on Harry Gumbert's fumble, but Ripper Collins fouled out, and Billy Jurges laid down an easy grounder to finish the inning.

In the seventh Reynolds came up with two out and a man on first, and rapped a single to center, sending the runner to third, but Collins lifted to Wally Berger to end the threat.

Wilson's string of 20 consecutive scoreless innings was cut in the second. With the bases filled, when Owen singled and beat Higgins' sacrifice throw to second on Hayes' sacrifice after Radcliff walked, he hit Catcher Luke Sewell with a pitched ball. With the bases still filled, Mike Kreevich singled in two more.

Singles by Hayes, Sewell and Boze Berger scored Chicago's other run in the fourth and erased Wilson. Jim Bagby, Jr., and Charles Wagner shut out the Sox the remainder of the way.

Whitehead, scattering Boston's three hits by Ben Chapman, Bobby Doerr and Jimmy Foxx over three of the first four innings, was in jams later when his control failed him. Foxx's hit and two passes filled the bases with one out in the fourth but Doerr grounded into a double play. The Red Sox also filled the bases to no avail in the seventh on a hit batsman and the other two of Whitehead's four passes.

Chicago — (AP) — The Phillies climaxed an uphill battle against Cincinnati yesterday by taking advantage of a balk and an error to score a ninth inning 5 to 4 victory.

With one down in the ninth, Hugh Mulcahy singled and went to second on Joe Casarella's balk.
Herschel Martin flied to Dusty Cook in left. After the catch, Cook threw the ball towards third, but Linus Frey deflected the ball into the Reds' dugout. Mulcahy scoring the winning run.

Goodman's homer in the first after a base on balls to Frey and Cook's single gave the Reds three runs, but Peaches Davis weakened as Mulcahy got better. Homers by Schearin and Corbett and Arnovich's single gave the Phils three runs before Davis retired in the eighth after Schearin's double.
Chuck Klein then singled on Casarella's first pitched ball to score Schearin with the tying run.

Merchants at Black Creek, Shiocton At Hortonville in County Loop Sunday

BLACK CREEK Merchant baseball team will tangle with an old enemy Sunday in the Outagamie County league, when it invades Black Creek in what probably will be the loop's feature game.

Last season the two clubs clashed on several occasions and the games usually were interesting baseball and once or twice there was a little fisticuffs to enliven the proceedings. The clubs tied with Shiocton for honors in the second round with the Creekers beating the Merchants and then losing to Shiocton.

Last week the Creekers showed more than a little hitting ability when they walloped the Grange by a 23 to 6 score. They accounted for 22 hits, the extra base knocks being a homer, double and triple. J. Miller pitched for the Creekers and allowed six hits and probably will be on the mound Sunday.

Greenville Merchants trimmed Hortonville by an 8 to 2 score with Lefty Fredericks allowing the Canners only five hits. He'll take the mound Sunday to stop the Creeker hitting spree and if he isn't successful Dats Crowe will be called. The Merchants have won two straight.

Shiocton, the league's other undefeated team, invades Hortonville in a game that will see a lot of for-ling because several Hortonville players showed for Shiocton last season. Sabrowsky, who last week limited the hard-hitting Dale club to three runs and eight hits, will show again for Shiocton and is favored in the guessing.

Hortonville would like nothing more than to get into the win column at the expense of Shiocton.
The Villers will depend on Freddie Buchman's southpaw slants with Smoky Lathrop available if necessary.

The game also will feature Emmett Collar directing the Shiocton club and Milton Collar the Hortonville club.

The other game will have Greenville Grange, attempting to recover from last week's trimming at the hands of Black Creek, playing at Dale. Dale's setback last Sunday by

Vike Frosh Does 440 in 66 Seconds And Wins $20—if He Can Collect It

WALTER BLINSTRUB, a freshman at Lawrence, may feel weak in the legs today, he may have a charley horse or two, and his stomach still may be doing funny things but he's $20 richer—if he has collected.

It seems that the Lawrence boys around Brokaw were having a bull session recently with track one of the main subjects. Somehow an argument started over the quarter mile run and one thing led to another and finally to a statement that Blinstrub could run the 440 under 70 seconds.

The argument waxed hot, especially in view of the fact Blinstrub isn't a track man, apparently never had been and had only a pair of long legs and confidence in his ability. Eventually the arguments got around to the betting stage and a group headed by Wayne Cochran, a sprinter on the track squad, wag-ered 20 bucks to 2 offered by Blinstrub.

So yesterday afternoon the big event was staged at Whiting field in the rain and the wind and with a goodly crowd which ridiculed and cheered but mostly ridiculed.

Denney Holds Watch Blinstrub came out wearing a sweat suit and a jacket, took a short jaunt which indicated anything except track form and finally announced he was ready when Coach Arthur C. Denney promised to hold the watch.

After learning that he was supposed to run to the left around the track instead of the right, Blinstrub pounded a couple starting blocks into the cinders with the aid of Cochran but when he was shown how to take position he vetoed that and decided he'd start from a half crouch.

At the sound of the gun the runner appeared to recoil and then started out. He started from a middle track position instead of the curb but got away to a good start As he finally hit the curb on the first turn he appeared to slow his stride but by the time he started to pound down the back stretch his long legs were picking up yardage and a somewhat stunned group heard he had rattled the first 220 yards in 30 seconds.

But he'd never stick it out, they consoled themselves.

Then the Finish Swinging into the final curve the runner still was making legs but obviously tiring. Then came the stretch and he was forced to run around a considerable amount of water on the track adding several more feet to his race. The last 100 feet saw him swaying and gasping but he stayed at it. When about 20 feet from the tape he started stumbling and was headed for a dive when he crossed the wire. A half dozen willing hands grabbed him as Coach Denney announced
"66 seconds." Cochran almost with-ed and Bob Shocker, who had put up 12 bucks, turned white and wanted to faint.

A healthy cheer went up as the time was announced and a half dozen friends walked a wobbly-kneed Blinstrub up to the turn and started him back still a weak and sick young fellow.

They finally walked him to the dressing room at Alexander gymnasium where he flopped on the rubbing table winner of his bet but hardly inclined to sit up and receive well-wishes and congratulations.

PLAY ON SUNDAY
Grand Chute at Oshkosh; Appleton at Green Bay

NEENAH or Kaukauna will be pushed off the top rung in Fox River Valley league, standings Sunday afternoon for the two squads are scheduled to tangle at Neenah. Grand Chute has a chance to remain in a tie for the top if the squad bumps off Oshkosh.

Johnny Roth's Cabs of the Sawdust city walloped the Menasha Falcons, 15 to 5, last Sunday and are primed to take the Grand Chute squad into camp.

Kaukauna Electric City Brewers and Neenah Merchants are both undefeated and aim to stay that way. Manager Bill Handler will have his star slapper, Lefty Jerome, on the mound while Kaukauna will have Ray Diederick, who set down Little Chute last week, against the Merchants.

Diederick twirled for Elfers Cheese squad of DePere last year and was slated to play second base for the Kaukauna squad but Manager Walby Kilgas shifted him to the mound when the Kaw twirler, Eddie Schuler, was laid low by an illness at the start of the season.

Show Hitting Power
Kaukauna has a bunch of rookies headed by Johnson, a shortstop, son of Eddie Johnson, who formerly wore a Kaukauna uniform. Johnson has hit three times in three appearances. Gast showed up as another hard hitter by clouting one over the centerfield wall.

Little Chute will entertain the Menasha Falcons. Manager Harvey Hartjes will have LaVerne Van Dyke, now at Stevens Point Normal, on hand to fill in at second base or short stop, two positions which have been a problem. Jerry Versteegen donned a uniform last week and played a whole of a game at shortstop without any practice. Lucassen has been filling in at second but is more at home in center field.

Manager Art Buzanoski of the Falcons intends to do a little juggling but hasn't beaten at anything. After their beating at the hands of Oshkosh last week, the Poles will attempt to take it out on the Dutchmen. Brokup, Buzanoski, or Kozlowski will be on the mound while Herb Kozlowski will do the receiving. Either Lefty Widenberg or Dago Schuler will be on the firing line for Little Chute and Hartjes will be behind the plate.

Scored Six Runs
Another good game is in store for fans at the Green Bay Sox park when the Becker Taverners of Appleton take on the Thomas Drugs. Manager Wally Murphy had the last game against Grand Chute sailed away in the first inning with six runs but the boys took things easy and lost out in the ninth inning.

Brown is expected to be on the mound for Appleton with Krause receiving while Red O'Brien will do the hurling for the Taverners. O'Brien held Neenah to seven hits last Sunday but five errors committed by his teammates spelled defeat. Schuette will be behind the plate.

Manager Herb Wickesberg has a well balanced Grand Chute team headed by Brugeman, Kirk and Kroiss. Nofke is a steady twirler and will be serving 'em up Sunday.

The standings:

Attorney General
And Bobby Jones to Tangle on Fairway

Washington—(AP)—Attorney General (One-Putt) Cummings polished up his trusty putter today for a turf-tit with Bobby Jones of Atlanta, who also is good on the green.

Lawyer Jones and Lawyer Cummings will play Tuesday at the annual outing of the District of Columbia Bar association. There is a difference of 32 years in the ages of the 36-year-old Jones and the 68-year-old Cummings, but there's plenty of money around the capital that there won't be that much difference in their scores. Everybody knows about Jones' golf, but what about the A. G.'s? He's a long, fairly accurate driver, good on approaches, and when he's right, about as good as they come at putting.

During a recent winter game in Florida, the lanky Cummings' score card showed nine greens on which he took but one putt.

Schedule Blind Bogey
Tourney at Riverview
Because the weather man has been kicking up his heels this week and has not allowed golfers much chance to get out and loosen up their swing, the tournament scheduled for Riverview Country club on Saturday is a blind bogey in which a good score will not necessarily win. Players will pick their handicaps by the punch board method, and since the blind bogey number may be anything from 50 to 110, anybody might turn in the lucky score.

Prizes will also be given for low net, and a "booby" prize for high net.

New York Giants Come Down to Earth After Stubbing Toes on Chicago Cubs

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—It doesn't take a gossip columnist to detect the honeymoon is over for the Giants and that from now on they are going to find life extremely real and earnest in the National league.

The news became community property during the last three days, with the first eastern visit of the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs impressed everybody within eye and earshot as a more belligerent, dangerous crew than they had been pictured in yarns from the west, while the Jints showed unmistakable symptoms of coming down to earth, losing the three game series to the Chicagoans.

One thing is certain, at least the Terrymen are not going to make a runaway as long as the Chicago entry continues to fight and fume like it did at the Polo Grounds. Charley Grimm, furthermore, still is the boss of the outfit, and he's acting madder than Donald Duck most of the time.

Grimm Is Boss
Everybody was waiting to see the Chicago "board of strategy" in action and rabid Giants rooters longed to applaud any signs of dissension among the brass hats. They were disappointed. Gabby Hartnett, the big catcher, is handling the Cubs' pitchers on the field and waving in the relief men from the bullpen, but otherwise Grimm is the works.

He demonstrated that pretty conclusively when he jerked the clouting Tony Lazzeri right out of the lineup after the first game of the Giants' series. Neither is he getting any back-talk from Dizzy Dean, who is more tractable than Frankie Frisch would believe.

Dizzy, against orders, got out in front of the dugout the other day and tossed a couple of balls to a teammate before somebody noticed him and yelled to Grimm. "Quit it," said Charley in a quiet voice, and Dizzy did without a word of argument. Diz, incidentally, blames the cool weather for the failure of his $185,000 arm to regain its zing.

Pound Ace Hurlers
The Cubs were the first team to knock the frosting off the Giants' twin aces, Cliff Melton and Carl Hubbell. They didn't beat Melton, but they got him off the mound, and they gave Hub a solid thumping in the second game.

The gap between the Giants and their pursuers is due to run, gradually, perhaps, but surely. They still look like a little the best outfit in the league when they are at full strength and hitting even normally, but they couldn't have been as good as they threatened to be in the opening weeks.

All that terrific hitting has subsided as it figured to do, and only Joe Moore and Mel Ott, the old stand-bys, continue to flail the apple.

APPLETON HIGH HOPES AT RELAY CARNIVAL SATURDAY
Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton High school's track squad is pointing for a victory in only one relay tomorrow at the Fox River Valley conference relay meet at Fond du Lac. Hight School Tracksters Slated for Third Place at Conference Relays

GREEN BAY EAST and West to battle for the championship and Appleton to place about third is Coach Joseph Shields' dope of the Fox River Valley conference relay meet scheduled tomorrow afternoon at Fond du Lac. It will be the first time a conference meet ever has been held on the Cardinal track.

Shields has designs on one relay race, the mile, where he figures his best runners should be able to turn in pretty fair time. He has nominated Bowers, Oliver, Rogers and Colvin for this event. The first two are regular quarter milers and the latter two compete in the mile and the half, respectively.

Sadler III
The Terrers will be entered in all the relays, however, and in all the special events except the 100-yard dash. It was hoped Sadler would be able to compete for this meet and the conference meet but he failed to get past the doctor's examination and is confined to his home.

Appleton's entries and possibilities in each event follow:
100-yard dash—No Appleton entry unless Shields changes his mind and tries for a fourth or fifth place. Shot—Appleton is entering Heinritz, Buesing, Rollins and Fraser but Shields doesn't expect them to place in the finals.

Discus—Bowers, Dutcher, Heinritz and Rollins are possibilities. But that's about all.

High jump—Appleton should get about three points out of this event. Oliver and Larson are the best jumpers with Fumal the third entry.

Pick Bohnsack to Win
Broad jump—Karl Bohnsack should win a first for the Terrers. Filz may place and likewise Cape.

Pole vault—Bohnsack is expected to score a second in this event with the squad about third.

Two mile relay—Burke, Radke, Wolgast and Cape are to be entered but aren't expected to finish in the money.

Shuttle relay—Appleton may crash through with a third place in this event with Filz, Bowers and Oliver the most likely entries and Larson and Bohnsack possibilities.

Mile relay—Here's the race Appleton hopes to win with Oliver, Bowers, Colvin and Rogers.

Half mile relay—A fourth place has been picked for the Terrers. The team will be selected from Filz, Bohnsack, Bowers, Colvin and Koltzke.

440-yard relay—The team will be selected from the five mentioned above. Shields figures its good for a third place.

YORK SLUGS HOMER
Detroit—(AP)—George Gill set the Philadelphia Athletics down with six scattered hits yesterday as the Detroit Tigers slugged their way to a 6-2 victory in the opening game of a series here.

The Tigers collected only eight safeties off Lynn Nelson but six went for extra bases. Rudy York hit his fifth home run and Hank Greenberg his eighth of the season, each with a mate on base. Charlie Gehring, who replaced Greenberg in the clean-up position in a shake-up of the Detroit batting order, hit a double and a triple, and Gill and Dixie Walker also tripled.

Begin Trials for Western Circuit Meet at Columbus

Michigan Favored to Retain Big Ten Track Championship

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Ohio —(7)—Qualifying heats in 10 events, designed to separate the wheat from the chaff, occupied the mid-west's top-notch athletes today as they slashed the field for Saturday's finals in the 38th annual Western conference track and field meet at Ohio stadium.

With the cinder oval already water-logged as a result of recent rains, and more downpours promised for late today, indications were that the trial heat performances would fall short of record-breaking calibre.

Weather handicaps, however, were not slated to cut the odds on Michigan's top-heavy chance to retain the championship, the Wolverines being tipped to take the laurels for the 16th time by close to a 20-point margin.

5-Mile Exhibition
Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and Iowa were favored to battle it out for runner-up honors, with Illinois, Purdue, Minnesota, Northwestern and Chicago finishing in that order back of the big five.

Today's trials (scheduled at 2 p. m. C.S.T.) were in the high and low hurdles, 100 and 220-yard dashes, 440 and 880-yard runs, the shot, discus, javelin and broad jump.

Among the meet's features was a mile exhibition by Glenn Cunningham, the great Kansas star, who will be paced through the eight furlongs by Charley Beetham, former Buckeye luminary, and several Ohio freshmen running in relays. Bill Watson, Michigan's Negro star, defends his shot, discus and broad jump championships, and is favored to repeat, but George Halcrow of Chicago, 440-yard champion and the only other returning first placer, is expected to bow to Ohio's Harley Howells.

DEFEAT PLATTEVILLE
Fayette, Iowa —(7)—Upper Iowa college defeated the Platteville, Wis. Teachers, 4 to 3, in a baseball game here yesterday.

Dan Casey Proves He Doesn't Always Fan When Up at Bat

Baltimore —(7)—He waited half a century to do it, but the hero of "Casey at the Bat," renowned for fanning with the bases loaded, has proved he doesn't always strike out.

Casey was at the bat again last night. "Rajah" Hornsby was pitching. Two thousand fans were watching—and Casey missed the first two pitches.

It looked as if the immortal Casey might fan again. "Yea, Casey!" yelled the crowd as Hornsby served up another one. Casey swung — and missed to left.

Thus did the pride of Mudville, Dan Casey himself, now 76 and living in retirement at Silver Spring, acquit himself on "Casey night" at Oriole park.

In 1887, it was a different story, for as the poem says, "the mighty Casey struck out" and the youthful Phillies pitcher lost a 4-3 decision to the Giants.

"I'll have to admit," said Casey, contemplating his hit, "that Hornsby didn't have as much on the ball as Tim Keefe did that time."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Bill Lee and Billy Herman, Cubs—Former blanked Giants with five hits and Herman singled to drive in winning run in tenth for 1-0 victory.

Jeff Heath, Indians—Hit homer with bases loaded and double, driving in five runs in 15-3 win over Senators.

Ira Hutchinson, Bees—Pitched shutout ball for nine innings to top Pirates 4-3.

Johnny Whitehead, White Sox—Hurled three hit shutout for 4-0 win over Red Sox.

Hugh Mulcahy, Phillies—Pitched seven-hitter and scored winning run in beating Reds, 5-4.

George Gill, Tigers—Tounced Athletics, 6-2, with six-hit pitching performance.

Ernie Koy, Dodgers—Hit homer with two mates on base in 8-4 win over Cardinals.

18,000 CAGERS
Marquette, —(7)—Eighteen thousand high school boys played basketball in Wisconsin last season, estimates P. F. Neversen, secretary of the Wisconsin inter-scholastic athletic association.

St. Mary Cagers To Get Trophies

Presentation to Take Place Sunday Night at Columbia Hall

St. Mary Catholic school basketball squad, which staged an upset and won first honors at the diocesan tournament at Menasha, in March, will receive trophies in a program which will be held between acts of a play Sunday evening at Columbia hall. Dr. George T. Hegner, president of the school's athletic association will present the trophies.

The award will be a gold miniature basketball with a letter "SM" and the notation "1938 champions." Initials of the winners also are on the balls.

Boys who will receive the trophies are Roger Niles, Hubert Duchateau, James McClone, Robert Baliet, Arvin Ristow, James Felt, Robert Connelly, Clement Managan, Francis McHugh, Ralph McClone, George Barry and Kenneth Mortell. John Van Ryzin, who coached the squad, also will receive an award.

Ross Rests After Fast Workout for Title Bout

Grossinger Lake, N. Y. —(7)—Just a pound under the weight he figures to weigh in at, Barney Ross will rest today and resume ring workouts Saturday for his heavyweight title defense against Henry Armstrong.

Ross weighed 141 yesterday after a fast workout in which he traveled two rounds each with Pete Cara and Pete Galiano. He has agreed to weigh 142 for the bout at Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday night.

The champion shook both spar mates with his favorite punch, a right uppercut. Then he did an hour's work in the gym.

Larry French Is Getting Plenty of Rest With Cubs

NEW YORK —(7)—Whizzer White, Colorado's great footballer, is paying a lot of attention to Latin these days. . . . Now, where is the guy going to need that most—as a Rhodes scholar or playing pro football with the Pittsburgh Pirates? . . . You're right the first time, Watson, so sit down. . . . Clarence Stewart, sports editor of the Colorado Springs Evening Telegraph, says the "Whizzer" will not make up his mind on Art Rooney's $15,000 pro offer until brother Sam, now winding up a hitch at Oxford, comes back and gives him the low down. . . . Getting A's on your home work is mighty fine, Mr. White, but it also is good to hear the crinkle of those century notes in your pocket.

They're telling it around that Bill McKeechick sent Hank Gowdy out with instructions to corral old Ray Benge and bring him in to bolster the Red's young pitching staff. . . . "Bring the guy back dead or alive," wired Bill. . . . "How can I tell the difference?" Gowdy retorted—collect.

Billy Knickerbocker had better start hitting if he doesn't want to see Joe Gordon back at second base. . . . You have often seen the familiar picture caption: "Local boy makes good." . . . Boston papers claim it originated back in 1913 when Frances Quimet, captain of the present Walker cup team, beat Ted Ray, British veteran, and Harry Vardon in the playoff for the national open title on the Brookline (Mass.) course where Quimet started as a caddy.

Charlie Grimm is seeing to it that Larry French is getting plenty of rest this spring. . . . Larry has twirled great ball in his time and still can, but he can't go in every three or four days and mow 'em down as he once could. . . . Last year he went great in the spring, but bogged down in the stretch drive when the Cubs needed him worst. . . .

Mebbe you have seen everything in the world, but how about hearing signals for Notre Dame formations called in (their native tongues), by a German, Hebrew, Hawaiian, Polish, Czech, Mexican and Indian quarterback? . . . Was done at Lubbock, Texas, recently when the athletes received their awards. . . . Names on request.

Armstrong Takes It Easy at Training Camp

Pompton Lakes, N. J. —(7)—While Henry Armstrong continued to take it easy at his training camp, his manager, Eddie Mead, issued a flat statement that his boy would knock out Barney Ross when the two meet for Ross' welterweight title at Madison Square Garden bowl Thursday night.

"He'll do it in ten or eleven rounds," said Mead. Henry's manager said he didn't believe Ross would be able to fathom Henry's bobbing, weaving style and that Ross, who fights by the clock and habitually puts out only in the last minute of each round, would have a tough time handling Henry in the first two minutes.

Armstrong, who claims he is in the best shape of his career did not box yesterday and planned to rest again today. He will box tomorrow.

Indiana Nine Invades Wisconsin's Diamond

Chicago —(7)—Indiana's pace setters in the Big Ten baseball race rode their five game winning streak onto the Wisconsin campus today, hoping to increase their string and their lead as well in a two-game series with the third place Badgers.

The Hoosiers have been undefeated in the conference since their opener with Ohio State. However, the aspiring Badgers, who owned a four-game winning streak of their own until Iowa broke it last week, were expected to present a strong front in an effort to overcome Indiana's one game lead.

Other two-game series for the weekend included Purdue at Ohio State and Chicago at Iowa. Northwestern will play at Illinois Saturday. The Illini's scheduled game with Indiana Tuesday, the first since 1917, was rained out.

BOXING

Saginaw, Mich.—Marty Simmons, 165, Saginaw, outpointed Sammy Slaughter, 163, Terre Haute, Ind., (10).

Atlanta—John Henry Lewis, 182, light heavy weight champion, knocked out Elmer Ray, 193, Tampa, Fla., (12).

Amsterdam, N. Y.—Matt Perfetti, 126, Amsterdam, outpointed Eddie Voccia, 126, New York, (8).

Portland, Me.—Paul Junior, 134, Lewiston, Me., won newspaper decision over Johnny Bellus, 135, New Haven, Conn., (10).

Miami, Fla.—Ben Brown, 162, Atlanta, knocked out Meyer Lichtenstein, 151, Baltimore, (2).

Badger Golfers Defeat Carleton College Team

Madison —(7)—The University of Wisconsin golf team defeated Carleton college, of Northfield, Minn., yesterday, 16 1/2 to 4 1/2.

The Badgers leave today for Minneapolis where a match is scheduled Saturday with the University of Illinois. The Badgers will start play in the Big Ten golf meet at Minneapolis Monday.

PRESS AGENT WAS CONFUSED
Lawrence, Kas. —(7)—During the recent Kansas relays W. A. Dill, Kansas publicity director, hustled down the press row handing out sheets of paper listing the personnels of the teams competing in a race in progress at the time.

"There's another team in it, running second, but I don't know what it is," he explained.

It was Kansas.

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS ACTION HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood Have you a little "cycle" in your mind — the kind that Hollywood right now would give its eye teeth for?

For the first time in years, the town is drifting into that most uncomfortable state of being "cycleless." It's practically crying out loud for a major trend in production. It needs a new merry-go-round to ride, a different bandwagon to hop upon, a new leader in the game of follow-the-leader. There is always, of course, the first and longest-lived of the "cycles." That's the movie western. It has gone on through the years from movie infancy, now and again given glorified treatment which results in a "Covered Wagon," a "Big Trail" or a "Wells Fargo." But the western by now is a staple product, not a trend.

Gangster Cycle
Hollywood would be happy if it had a "cycle" just one-half as profitable as the one set in motion by "The Doorway to Hell" and "Public Enemy" seven years ago. What a merry ride the movie-makers took on that one! All they had to do was gather some plug-uglies, give 'em machine guns, and let 'em start firing. But the gangster business long since went into a decline. Only occasionally now can it be refurbished, from a different angle.

Musicals? They're always with us, but they're not going to be with us in such numbers as they were. They had a brief flurry in the early 'talkies, suddenly became as popular as play, and resided only with "42nd Street." Now Zerk has spoken: he's going to make only the big-star specials, the Sonja Henie, Ritz Bros., Shirley Temple, Cantor numbers. Musicals just for music and dancing are out. Jack Warner also has spoken: he's going to keep on making them, and making them good.

But the backstage musical—well, what else can they do with that one?
And there isn't much blood left in the turnips of insane comedy. "My Man Godfrey" was a godsend, and the nutty business has flourished overlong. But there, too, what else can they do now? Unless they make pictures that are plain silly—without trying to be!

None In Sight
The sea cycle had a long and honorable career also. "Mutiny on the Bounty" started that and brought in its wake a whole navy of sea-going movies. "Kidnapped" is still in the firing line, and it's good may inspire another oceanful of pictures.

The big historical drama will reach its peak—and probably its finish—with "Marie Antoinette." Those things cost too much in these times. The same applies to most of the big biographical plays—and besides Paul Muni is supposed to be weary of playing Frenchmen.

So it looks as if the producers will have to go ahead and make pictures without a box-office model to show the way. Out of these, of course, will come the next "cycle." Just one picture that rings the bell will turn the trick.

LESSON IN GEOGRAPHY
Scottsbluff, Neb. —(P)—Several days after a tornado struck the Lone Star School near Oshkosh, Neb., killing three children, Philis Martin, 14, of Scottsbluff was walking on a hill far from the scene of the tragedy.

She picked up two bits of paper. They were pages torn from geographies of the Lone Star school, which the pupils were studying when the storm struck.

One page described weather in Nebraska. The other explained wind velocities.

"Three Times Austria," the political autobiography which Austria's ex-chancellor, Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg, wrote before the Nazis deposed him, is scheduled to be published shortly in an English version.

Republicans Will Name 26 Delegates To State Meeting

Winnebago County Organization to Select Representatives May 25

Menasha—Winnebago county will be entitled to send 26 delegates and a like number of alternates to the state Republican convention at Fond du Lac, June 3 and 4, according to information received by Joseph O. Seftenberg, Oshkosh, county Republican chairman, from state Republican headquarters.

The Winnebago county delegates and alternates will be elected at a county convention called for next Wednesday evening, May 25, at Hotel Athearn, Oshkosh. The county meeting will be open to all Republicans, regardless of whether or not they are signed members of the party.

Representation at the Fond du Lac gathering was decided on the basis of the Republican vote in each county at the last presidential election. Previously the plan was to allot the number of delegates on the basis of presidential votes and the number of signed members in each county. Many counties, however, have not organized yet on a signed membership basis.

Winnebago county Republicans will receive their charter at the meeting next Wednesday. The membership campaign will continue to enlist a large number of persons actively interested in the Republican cause.

The state conference will be held at the Fond du Lac armory, beginning at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, June 3. The call for the state conference gives the purpose of the meeting as follows:

"To promulgate and adopt a political platform; to elect an executive committee; to transact such other business as may properly come before the conference."

"The auxiliary is grateful to those who have volunteered to help us distribute poppies. We know that hard work and personal sacrifice will be required. Airmail Flights Slated for Today

Bad Weather Forces Postponement of Thursday's Schedule

Menasha—Notice of the postponement of the airmail flight from Green Bay to Milwaukee by S. J. Wittman, Oshkosh aviator, was received yesterday by Postmaster Joseph R. Coyle, today. Unfavorable weather conditions and the absence of all-weather landing fields throughout the state resulted in the postponement of the flight of 13 routes covering the entire state.

The airmail intended for the flight will be dispatched from the Menasha postoffice at 4 o'clock this afternoon, either by automobile by motorcyclist, to Oshkosh where it will be picked up by Wittman. From there the mail will be flown to Milwaukee.

The response of Menasha persons to the appeal for use of the airmail this week has been heavy, according to Mr. Coyle. Some business firms are sending their entire volume of mail via airmail.

Stamp collectors also have been making use of the service, according to Mr. Coyle. Letters have been received at the Menasha postoffice addressed to Appleton to go on the special flight. The letters will be carried to Milwaukee via airmail and then will be mailed back to Appleton on the trains. A special cancellation mark, three inches square, will be used on the airmail letters, increasing their value to stamp collectors.

I am an advertising man

For over thirty years I have been writing advertisements for national advertisers—shoes, soap, cereals, automobiles, radios, tobacco, blankets, tooth-powder.

To me it is the most fascinating work in the world — learning about the merits of merchandise and then telling people about them—bringing greater comfort and enjoyment into people's lives — introducing people to new pleasures, helping them to get the most for their money.

Besides being fascinating, it is satisfying. My intimate experience with advertisers has shown me that, except for rare exceptions, the manufacturers and merchants of this nation lean over backwards to be sincere and honest.

The law of advertising is simple once one understands its working—the more people know about the merit of a product, the more people buy it. The greater the volume of sales, the less the cost to manufacture. Savings in making mean either lower prices to the consumer or greater value put back into the merchandise.

As an advertising man I can sincerely affirm that it pays to read the advertisements in the newspapers—for news of new things, for news of bargains and savings.

There are thousands of other men — and women — devoting their lives to advertising writing, who will tell you the same thing. THEY KNOW!

OCTAGON HOUSE BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Quamnet is aroused when its citizens are caricatured in the post office mural. The next night, the artist's wife, unscrupulous Marina Lorne, is murdered. Her sister, Pamela Frye, whose knife killed Marina, appeals to Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective. Down by his wharf she tells him she found $50,000 worth of ambergris on the beach which Marina tried to claim. Later Pam discovered Marina dead in the garage and hid the ambergris. As Pam is about to disclose where she hid it, Asey covers her mouth. Someone very near, smoking Turkish tobacco, has been waiting to hear just that.

Chapter Five False Scent

"Yesir," Asey continued blandly, "after all you been through today, Pam, I should think your trip over would've been about the last straw. Say, you got a match? I thought I had a pocketful, but this old pipe's run through 'em all."

He removed his hand from her mouth.

"I've got a new flap of 'em somewhere on me," Pam said, slightly dazed at the natural and familiar sound of her own voice. "Wait'll I fish around."

"When I ask," Asey whispered in her ear "where's the ambergris, you be real reluctant. It's in your house? Then you say, it's in the woods behind the garage. Act up! Thanks," he added aloud as she gave him the matches. "Now, Pam, before we do anything else, we'd better settle up the ambergris part. Where'd you hide it?"

"Do--do I have to tell you?" Pam asked.

Asey announced with some firmness that he was sure he was as safe a person as she was like to find. "An' certain," he said, "I'm sure the clam dredger ain't goin' to town an' spread the tidin's."

"Oh, I didn't mean to insinuate anything about you," Pam said hurriedly, noting Asey's grin and his nod of approval at her acting. "I'm sure enough about you. It's just--well, after what I've gone through, I sort of hate to tell you one."

"Uh-huh," Asey said, "but we got to get to it--real soon. I s'pose you took it over to your house, didn't you?"

"No," she said, "that's the last place to keep anything safely. We have hideous rats, you know. I didn't dare take it there. I wheeled it in the barrow out to the woods, about halfway between the garage and our place. There's an over summer house there, filled with trash that never gets taken to the dump. There was an old linoleum rug. I set it on that, it was easy to romance, she found, once you got started, "and then covered it, and put things around it. No one's gone near that summer house for 30 years, except a vast family of skunks that live there. I knew they'd take care of the rat problem for me. I don't know from experience if rats like ambergris, but our rats eat anything, and there's no reason to suppose they wouldn't eat ambergris if they got the chance."

Someone Was Moving

"I see," Asey said. "Well, we'll go after that directly. But first off, we got a mighty heap of thinkin' an' plannin' to be done. You sit there, please, while I brood some."

He closed his eyes and listened. A soft wind murmured in the tall pines nearby and little waves tapped at the wharf piles. Beyond, on the outside beach, the surf boomed dully. A whipporwill called plaintively from his orchard. Two dogs yelped furiously for a minute and then were abruptly silent.

Something nearby cracked. No, it was only his imagination. No, it wasn't either. Something--someone--was moving in the shadow of those tall pines at the foot of the landing.

Casualty, Asey turned his head and stared, but his eyes couldn't penetrate those deep shadows. Probably the fellow was crawling on hands and knees through the thick quiet layers of pine needles, screened by the beachplum bushes that fringed the shore.

It was a physical effort to check his impulse to start out in pursuit. If only, Asey thought, he were alone! Somehow he'd get the fellow. But there was the girl to consider, and other little items, too.

Kaukauna Nine to Meet Manitowoc In League Contest

Brews Again Will Attempt To Open Season on Home Grounds

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Mel-lows again will attempt to open the season here Sunday afternoon at the Kaukauna ball park against the Manitowoc Shipbuilders in the Northern State league. A scheduled opening here two weeks ago was washed away, and last Sunday things were the same at New London.

The Kaws usual Tuesday and Thursday night practices this week went the way of their regular games, rain stopping them. The players hope to get together tomorrow night for a little exercise before meeting the invaders, who have taken advantage of two sunny Sundays to ring up two wins and pace the loop.

In their two games the Ships have pounded out 21 runs to their opponents 6, gaining a 11 to 3 victory over New London and a 10 to 3 win over Kimberly. In former years, however, the Ships have been knocked over by the Kaws most of the time.

Weisgerber to Pitch Lefty Schoepke will take the mound for the visitors, with Dick Weisgerber the Kaw hurler. Schoepke has worked on huge-leads so far this season, and may find things different with Weisgerber bearing down. Last year Schoepke's to fatten their batting averages.

Ben Peck will be behind the bat for the Kaws with Baldy Eggert on first. Van Drasek at second, Powell at short and Zelinski on third complete the infield. Manager Howard Bowers, Joey Vils and Ves Kappell will roam the outfield. Al Bauer, veteran Kaw reliever, will be on hand if Weisgerber's offerings are no puzzle to the enemy.

Gymnasium Is Decorated For Junior Prom Tonight

Kaukauna—Three weeks of preparation will culminate tonight in the annual Junior prom at the high school gymnasium. Clifford Kelista, prom king, will lead the march with his queen, Patricia Mayer.

The motif of this year's decoration scheme is the Big Apple. Large red balloons hang from a ceiling of green leaves. Silhouettes of dancers performing the Big Apple are at the farther end of the gym, and a large sign, reading "Big Apple Inn," at the front. A pointed stone wall with lattice work runs around the floor. Apple trees cover the windows, and red and green lanterns furnish part of the lighting. Jugs labeled "Apple Cider," decorate the stairways.

Spectators are invited to watch the prom from the balcony. Miss Mildred Feller, faculty adviser, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Hubert Niesen Of Kaukauna Is Dead

Kaukauna—Mrs. Hubert Niesen, 73, 266 West Wisconsin avenue, died unexpectedly at her home at 9 o'clock last night. Born in Saukville in 1858, she resided in Kaukauna for the last 58 years. She was a member of the Christian Mothers society of Holy Cross church.

Valley League Team Will Play at Neenah

Kaukauna—Manager Wally Kilgus will learn if his Fox River Valley league victory over Little Chute last Sunday indicates his boys may be in the running this year when he takes his club to Neenah Sunday for its second game. The Neenah nine ran over Green Bay last Sunday, whipping them 9 to 2, with Lefty Jerome, Neenah hurler, allowing only five hits.

Ray Diederich, who struck out nine Little Chute last week, will attempt to gain another win at the expense of Neenah. George Bloch will be the catcher. Others who will start for the Kaws are Cliff Vanevenhoven, Bill Alger, Carl Schuler and Ralph Johnson, infielders, and Omaha Gast, Gib Busse and Vic Rohan, outfielders.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

This fellow could see them, but they couldn't see him. He was probably armed. Assey had nothing more vicious at hand than a clam hoe and a pair of oars. If the fellow wanted to take a pot-shot at Pam, Frye, there was nothing to stop him. If he suspected that they knew of his presence, Assey decided, Pam was the logical person to pot shot at.

Nearly a quarter of an hour passed before they heard the sound of a car starting. "No lights?" Pam asked. "He don't practically need 'em on the road," Assey said. "Not hereabouts. He'll put 'em on when he comes to the curve—see? At that speed, he'll be hob-nobbin' with the summer huns skunks in about six minutes flat, or else the angels'll be measurin' him for a harp. I hope for his sake that he knows the road."

Cops! "Aren't you going to follow—why'n't you go after him while he was here? Who is he? Did he hear you?"

They stopped at the end of the landing. "What," Pam asked dismally, "now?"

"Listen," Assey said. "Cars. Hear? Several of 'em, an' bein' driven at a pace so's to endanger. See the lights now? Comin' to my house—"

"Cops," Pam said. "Cops. Exit Miss Frye, with gyves or handcuffs. Anyway, you've heard the truth, and you're one up—there go the brakes, they're stopping in front of your house. Thanks, Assey, you."

"Wait," Assey said, "I keep wonderin' why you've got to be carted off when you'll be such a nice drawin' card for this lad—oh drat, I left a note for Syl stuck in my door, sayin' I'd be in the Mary B. or at the wharf—here they come! Pam, how much spirit you got left?"

"Practically none," she told him truthfully.

(Copyright, 1938)

Will the police arrest Pam? Continued tomorrow.
